lence. According to records, around 10:50 PM, Wednesday, Deputy Charles Butler, LCSO was dispatched to Interstate 75 south around the 81 mile marker in reference to a man, later identified as Alan Tarbell, in a red Honda who was trying to run a white Infinity off the roadway. The female caller advised dispatch Tarbell was her ex boyfriend.

The lawman reported both parties were located around the 72 exit. Deputy Rayfield, LCSO, stopped the red Honda at the Shell on Highway 72 and Deputy Butler talked to the female victim at the Marathon Station, also on Highway 72.

The female advised Mr. Tarbell was served with an order of protection and he became upset and started following her down Interstate 75 south from the split at 40-75, all the way to the 72 exit south. The victim further stated Tarbell was trying to swipe her car with his and he was calling and texting her during the incident.

The woman advised his actions placed her in fear of injury or death.

Records indicate during a search of Mr. Tarbell's red Honda, a cell phone was located with several calls, texts and photos of the victim recorded on it.

The order of protection was issued out of Campbell County.

Meeting

Ray Bell Building.

TWRC committee meetings will begin at 1 p.m. on Feb. 25 and the regular commission meeting will start at 9 a.m. on Feb. 26.

Following last fall's successful elk hunt, the first since elk were reintroduced in the state, TWRA officials will present their plan for the 2010 statewide elk hunting season. If approved by the TWRC, the 2010 will be held Oct. 18-22, 2010 with five permits available for antlered bulls only. Four of the elk permits will again be randomly selected through a drawing conducted by the TWRA while the fifth permit will be donated to a Non-Governmental Organization, this year the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation to help raise funds for Tennessee's elk program.

TWRC members will be updated on the elk program with an in-depth overview of our elk census methods and results, and information on other factors that influence the elk population. The information is used in developing population models that provide TWRA's decision making concerning the elk program.

During the January meeting, the TWRC approved the process to move forward toward developing a reciprocal agreement between Tennessee and Virginia on South Holston Lake to enable fishermen from either state to fish the entire lake if they so choose. Specific details on the agreement will be presented, including possible implementation dates.

An overview of current legislative activity that affects TWRA will be presented. Also, the TWRC will be asked to give specific guidance on legislative issues related to hunting over bait; and, increased penalties for boating under the influence. Also, the proposed constitutional amendment regarding "The right to hunt and fish" will be discussed.

In preparation for an agenda item on the legislative update, TWRA's Boating Division will give an informational update regarding how the agency enforces the BUI law and how the agency officers are trained.

The Commission Nominations Committee will give its report to be followed by the election of officers for the 2010-11 term.

The TWRC serves as the governing body for the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency. The public is invited to attend.

on Oakland Avenue in Lenoir City and picked up a 12 year old female. Bounds and the young girl told the adults she was staying with that Bounds was her cousin and he was taking her to see her mother in the hospital.

The detective reported Bounds then took the girl to his residence on Jim Hartsook Drive where he lives with his father and while there had sexual intercourse with her knowing she was only 12 years old.

Detective Sartin made the arrest Thursday.

CDC H1N1 Flu Update

Each week CDC analyzes information about influenza disease activity in the United States and publishes findings of key flu indicators in a report called Flu-View. During the week of February 7 - February 13, 2010, most key flu indicators remained about the same as during the previous week. Below is a summary of the most recent key indicators:

* Visits to doctors for influenza-like illness (ILI) nationally increased slightly this week over last week, but are still low for this time of year. The national increase in ILI was driven by elevated ILI in regions 4, 7, and 9. Region 4 is comprised of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. Region 7 is comprised of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, and region 9 is comprised of Arizona, California, Hawaii and Nevada

* Laboratory-confirmed hospitalizations rates have leveled off and very few hospitalizations were reported by states during the week ending February 13.

* The proportion of deaths attributed to pneumonia and influenza (P&I) based on the 122 Cities Report increased slightly over the previous week but remains lower than expected for this time of year. In addition, another two flu-related pediatric deaths were reported this week: both deaths were associated with laboratory-confirmed 2009 H1N1. Since April 2009, CDC has received reports of 326 laboratory-confirmed pediatric deaths: 277 due to 2009 H1N1, 47 pediatric deaths that were laboratory confirmed as influenza, but the flu virus subtype was not determined, and two pediatric deaths that were associated with seasonal influenza viruses. (Laboratory-confirmed deaths are thought to represent an undercount of the actual number. CDC has provided estimates about the number of 2009 H1N1 cases and related hospitalizations and deaths.

* No states reported widespread influenza activity. Three states reported regional influenza activity. They are: Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

* Almost all of the influenza viruses identified so far continue to be 2009 H1N1 influenza A viruses. These viruses remain similar to the virus chosen for the 2009 H1N1 vaccine, and remain susceptible to the antiviral drugs oseltamivir and zanamivir with rare exception.

DeVault

City business Saturday.

Michael LLOYD DeVault, 47, West 3rd Avenue, Lenoir City was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, criminal impersonation and violation of probation.

According to reports, Patrolman Jason Felts, LCPD responded to Dotson's

Produce Saturday in reference to a suspicious person and upon arrival made contact with a man sitting in a Mazda M6 who said his name was Benjamin Skiles.

Mr. Skiles reportedly gave consent for Officer Felts to search his vehicle and a pat down of Skiles produced a clear glass tube with residue in one end.

The officer asked him what it was and Mr. Skiles stated, "a crack pipe."

The man was taken into custody and transported to the Loudon County Jail where it was later determined his real name was Michael Lloyd DeVault.

Police Beat

Brandon Lee Smith, 30, homeless, was charged with violation of probation and contempt of court.

Deputy Lonnie Gaut, LCSO made the arrest Monday at the Loudon County Justice Center in Court Room Two.

Additionally, both Lamar Outdoor Advertising and Clear Chanel Outdoor have joined the effort to help identify the suspect. Through their efforts there are now billboards running in at least 20 cities throughout 10 states including Tennessee. There are 10 billboards currently running alerts in and around Knoxville. The suspect is considered armed and dangerous and anyone with information should contact the FBI at 1-800-CALL-FBI.

The suspect is described as a white male, approximately 6' tall, weighing 210-230 pounds. Typically, the man enters the victim bank, approaches the teller counter and hands the teller a note demanding money. During some of the robberies, he has threatened to have a weapon. Additionally, the suspect may be driving a silver sport utility vehicle.

The FBI is offering a reward of up to $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of this individual. Please visit the Knoxville Division website at www.knoxville.fbi.gov to view all available photographs of the suspect. This matter is being investigated jointly by multiple FBI Field Offices as well as the Knox County Sheriff's Office and Knoxville Police Department, as part of the FBI's Safe Streets Task Force.

All defendants are presumed innocent unless and until proven guilty in a court of law.
