worth of property.

According to records, the couple, who live along Old Midway Road, told Deputy Mickey Patterson, LCSO they left their residence Sunday at 10:00 AM and returned around 1:30 PM to find someone had broken into their home.

The pair reported they discovered someone had busted through the front door and had gone through the house, taking several items.

Deputy Patterson turned the investigation over to Investigator Jason Smith, LCSO-CID.

The missing items include $500 in cash, a 42' television, costume jewelry and a silver wrist watch. The total estimated value of the loss, including the cash was estimated at $1975.

I guess those folks from that area take their cheese as serious as we do our corn bread.

We had to stop by Toad's on the way so Sven could buy a couple of "The Toad Project" tee shirts for his mother, who for some strange reason thinks the sun rises and sets in Toad.

Well Toad was out on the dock working on this project of his. It was a spectacular sight: two extremely large barges. Later we found out they were a 261 foot deck barge and a 90 ton floating crane.

As soon as Toad saw us, he stuck out his chest and said, "Behold, the future of fishing in Tennessee lies before you."

What were we to do but stand there with our jowls wide open?

Well, he took us into the store and as Sven got a couple of shirts he proceeded to explain "The Toad Project," which turned out to be one heck of an idea in it's original project form.

That project involved old WWII maritime ships; not 1967 mobile homes.

Bullard

was charged Saturday with domestic assault x 3 and child endangerment. The report states Deputy Brian Smith, CSO responded to Martel Road in reference to a physical domestic and upon arrival came in contact with Mr. Justin Bullard. Mr. Bullard was very uncooperative and violent with officers. A female stated Bullard pulled her out of her chair by the arm in a violent manner while she was holding her 6 month old child. The woman said she tried to wake Bullard's mother and stepfather up, but Mr. Bullard told her to stop and pulled her by the hair on the back of her head while she was still holding her baby.

At that time Bullard's mother came out of her bedroom and asked what was going on. Justin told her to go back in the bedroom, mind her own business and go back to bed, at which time his stepfather came out and asked what was going on.

Records indicate Justin Bullard then pushed his mother to the ground in a violent manner and approached his stepfather and started to strike him in the face and head several times.

The younger woman told Deputy Smith the argument started over a password for Facebook. According to the officer's report, he noticed several marks on Bullard's stepfather. He also noticed marks on the female's arm and on the back of her head. There were also marks on Bullard's mother's chest and head.

All three victims told Deputy Smith Mr. Bullard has been violent in the past.

The deputy further reported he noticed a strong odor of alcohol on Mr. Bullard.

Justin A. Bullard was arrested and transported to the Loudon County Jail after a brief altercation with law enforcement in which Mr. Bullard was sprayed with Chemical Agent Freeze+P.
