The report states, Friday around 8:30 PM, Officer Anthony Chitwood, TWRA, observed Mr. Peek operating a Sea Doo private water craft in Fort Loudon Marina in Lenoir City. As Mr. Peek cleared the gas dock he accelerated up onto plain, still well within the "No Wake" zone of the marina.

Officer Chitwood called Officer Dewayne Williams on the radio to have him intercept the vessel. He made the stop around the Tennessee River mile 605.

Thomas Peek smelled of alcohol and the officer's attempted to do some afloat field sobriety tasks in which he was uncooperative.

The lawmen escorted Mr. Peek and his passenger to the Yarberry Access area to do onshore field sobriety tasks. Peek performed poorly on the tasks and was read the BUI Implied Consent Form and refused to be tested.

Reservations are now being taken for the new floating leisure ship and some of the oil scientist that are here studying the impact of the Gulf oil spill's impact on Tellico Lake have already booked the first level until September.

The speech also revealed that the third phase of the Toad Project was about to be underway. The new location is still a mystery, but he did hint that all the trailers used in this phase would be double-wides.

I decided to bribe Coonfoot with some Twinkies to get further information on the location and I found out that the new spot would be close to the Pickle Park Canal ramp.
