the waterways to have an enjoyable time. However, TWRA officers will be on the watch for dangerous boating behavior, such as boating under the influence (BUI) and other reckless operation.

So far in 2011 on Tennessee waters, there have been 21 fatal accidents resulting in 22 deaths. There have been 69 injury accidents and 50 property damage accidents reported. TWRA boating officers have made 110 BUI arrests, a reduction of 36 from the same period last year.

Heading into the Labor Day holiday period in 2010, there had been 158 accidents and 18 fatalities. There was one fatality in the two boating accidents reported during the holiday weekend. Also, TWRA boating officers made five BUI arrests during the weekend.

Wearing a life jacket is the single most effective way to protect boaters and reduce drowning in boating accidents. Eighty percent of those who drown in boating accidents were not wearing a life jacket.

Along with the use of life jackets, TWRA wants to stress the responsible use of alcohol while boating. It is important to consider the effects of drinking and driving whether on water or land. Statistics show that more than 20 percent of boating-related fatalities are a result of alcohol use. Sun, wind, noise, vibration and motion intensify the effects of alcohol, drugs and some medications.

Operating a boat with a Blood Alcohol Content of .08 or higher is illegal in Tennessee, the same as operating a motor vehicle. Penalties may include fines, jail, boat impoundment and the loss of boat driving privileges.

ed; she served as the PTA president of that activity center for 7 years. Never ceasing to serve, Pon just added to her agenda when, at age 54, she entered the University of Tennessee at Knoxville as a freshman. During the four years she startled people as a first-time coed, she visited the Baptist Student Union where she befriended students from India, Jordan, and Japan, inviting them home with her for holidays so that they would not be alone. Pon not only discovered new friends in college, she found she had a talent for painting, resulting later in a one-woman showing at First National Bank of Lenoir City. She graduated with a degree in history and a minor in art. With degree in hand, Pon again taught kindergarten, this time at Eaton's Crossroads. She retired after a few years to embark on new adventures and hosting exchange students in her home. She spent her remaining years serving in various roles but always made time to stay involved in the lives of her family, hosting many gatherings and reunions. Her declining health over the past few years necessitated a move to Manchester, TN, where she passed away recently with the dignity and grace she exhibited in life. Visitation will be held at Click Funeral Home in Lenoir City Friday, 9/2, from 6-8 pm. Funeral services will be Saturday, 9/3 at 1 pm in the Click Funeral Home Chapel with with Bro. 6. This will provide maximum roadway capacity for motorists traveling during the busy Labor Day holiday.

"The Labor Day holiday marks the unofficial end of summer and is one of the busiest travel periods of the year," said TDOT Commissioner John Schroer. "We want to ensure that the thousands of travelers using Tennessee's roadways during this period arrive at their destinations quickly and safely without being impeded by road construction delays."

While lane closure activity will be stopped, workers will still be on site in many construction zones, and drivers are urged to obey posted speed limits. Drivers convicted of speeding in work zones where workers are present face a fine of $250 to $500, plus court fees and possible increased insurance premiums.

"Drivers can expect to see an increased number of law enforcement personnel on the roads this Labor Day weekend," said Governor's Highway Safety Office Director Kendall Poole. "We want everyone to have a safe holiday, so remember to buckle up, drive the speed limit and don't get behind the wheel if you've had too much to drink or are impaired in any

Nationwide travel is expected to remain relatively unchanged from last year. The summer travel season is expected to close with an estimated 31.5 million travelers taking a trip of 50 miles or more away from home. AAA Auto Club South projects that more than 541,000 Tennesseans will travel by car this Labor Day holiday, a slight decrease in travel through the state compared to last year's numbers.

reported she came home to her residence and noticed she had her gold wedding band missing worth about $6000. The ring was taken out of a jewelry box in the bedroom closet.

Upon further investigation it was learned that Mrs. Scott did have a cleaning service at her home the same day the ring was missing. Upon further investigation it was learned the cleaning service asked Danielle Courtney to take a drug test and she refused. A further investigation revealed Ms. Courtney had pawned several items. The victim Mrs. Scott did in fact identify her ring.

Ms. Courtney was interviewed by Detective Lt. Patrick Upton and admitted she was on the premises of the victim and went to the closet and took the ring out of a jewelry box. Ms. Courtney advised she had a friend pawn the ring for her. Ms. Courtney told the detectives she tried to get the ring pack from the pawn dealer but he would not let her because it was stolen.

Yet another victim from Tellico Village reported she had sold a ring that was discovered to be a retirement ring that belonged to Jim Sonntag of Tellico Village. Ms. Courtney also had been cleaning the victim's residence prior to the theft. The ring was found and identified by Mr. Sonntag as his ring.

Ms. Courtney further reported to Lt. Upton she had been obtaining the jewelry by cleaning houses.

In reports from Knox County Sheriffs Department Ms. Courtney is reported to have removed several pieces of jewelry from the victim Susan Murphy of Knoxville while cleaning her home. The jewelry was valued at $3750. The stolen jewelry was recovered in Loudon County.

Danielle Lynn Courtney, 39, of Angel Row, Loudon, was charged with theft over $10,000-$59,999 and theft over $1000 to $9999 out of Knox County as well as theft over $1000 x2 in Loudon County. Deputy Bobby Hamilton, LCSO made the arrest at a residence on Sunnyside Road in Philadelphia.

Warning

tember 5, at 11:59 p.m. "The Tennessee Highway Patrol has partnered with several local law enforcement agencies and highway safety advocates, including the Governor's Highway Safety Office and Mother's Against Drunk Driving, to educate the motoring public of the consequences of impaired driving this holiday weekend," said Department of Safety and Homeland Security Commissioner Bill Gibbons. "Our collective goal is to prevent injury crashes and reduce roadway fatalities at all costs. Together, we hope to protect Tennessee roadways from those who make careless decisions."

Over the 2010 Labor Day holiday, 10 people were killed in 10 fatal crashes on Tennessee roadways, down from 11 people killed on Tennessee roadways in 2009. Throughout the state in 2009, 303 people were killed in crashes where the driver or motorcyclist had a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of .08 or higher. That is down from 306 people killed in 2008 with a BAC of .08 or higher.

Nationwide in 2009, nearly 11,000 people died in highway crashes due to impaired driving. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), individuals in the age range of 21 to 24 have the highest percentage of alcohol-impaired-driving fatalities in motor vehicle crashes.

In 2009, motorcycle riders held the highest percentage of drivers with BACs of .08 or above in fatal crashes with 29 percent. Thirty-seven of the 138 motorcycle riders who were killed in Tennessee in 2010 had alcohol involvement.

"Impaired driving enforcement campaigns are important during the holidays, but we are committed to D.U.I. enforcements year-round," said THP Colonel Tracy Trott. "We believe the decline in Tennessee fatalities are a direct result of the vigilant patrols, sobriety checkpoints and D.U.I. arrests made throughout the year. Our message is simple - zero tolerance."

There were an estimated 1.5 million DUI arrests made nationwide in 2009. State troopers made 2,132 DUI arrests from January 1 through July 31, 2011. In 2010, the number of arrests made during that time was 1,631. That's a 30.7% increase during the same dates.

While drunk driving is especially common among young males, data shows that an increasing number of females are being arrested and convicted for driving while impaired. In Tennessee, the percentage of female DUI arrests increased from 18.4 percent in 2005 to 23.8 percent in 2010, while the percentage of male DUI arrests dropped from 81.6 percent in 2005 to 76.2 percent in 2010.

As of August 31, 2011, preliminary statistics indicate 614 have died on Tennessee roadways, a decrease of 85 deaths (12.2%) compared to 699 fatalities at this same time last year.

"The consequences of drinking and driving are deadly," said GHSO Director Kendell Poole. "To avoid a tragic crash or an arrest for impaired driving, do us all a favor...don't drink and drive. Our goal is to make Tennessee's roadways the safest in the nation for everyone."

The THP has also established sobriety checkpoints in high volume and high crash corridors across the state to look for aggressive and impaired drivers as well as safety belt violators. Last year, state troopers issued 59 DUI, 17 reckless driving, four public drunkenness, and 18 open container citations during the Labor Day period.

The Drive Sober or Get

Pulled Over campaign began August 19 and will end September 6. For more information on the national crackdown, visit www.StopImpairedDriving.org
