Tellico Village. Grocery bags with a Good Shepherd want list attached were distributed to members of the congregation who then filled the bags with the groceries and returned them to the Church where they were collected and delivered to the Good Shepherd Center. Most of this food is designated for the November Holiday. It is donations such as this that allows the Good Shepherd Center to provide food to the more than 2300 Monroe County men, women and children (850 families) each month, and the need continues to grow. For example, in the year 2008, 16,221 people were served. In the year 2013, 25,807 people were served. The majority are families at or below the poverty level and in constant survival mode and the ability to put a nutritious meal on the table day to day is a continuous strain. The Good Shepherd Center strives to fill at least part of that need. The Good Shepherd Center operates with volunteers and more volunteers are always needed. Anyone is invited to visit the Center to get a good idea of what is involved in its operation and perhaps find a job for which they can volunteer. Operating hours are Monday through Thursday, 9:00 AM until 12:30 PM. The Center is located at 5150 Hwy. 11S in Madisonville. Phone 423.420.8888.

Former Carter High School Band Booster Treasurer Stole $33,700

A special investigation by the Tennessee Comptroller of the Treasury has revealed the former treasurer of the Carter High School Band Booster Club in Knox County stole $33,700 of the club's money.

During the period January 2012 through September 2013, Amy Sherrod issued herself unauthorized club checks and used the money for her own benefit. Ms. Sherrod admitted to Comptroller investigators that she took the money to pay for personal family expenses.

Comptroller investigators also discovered Ms. Sherrod created false and misleading entries in the booster club records to conceal the unauthorized checks she wrote to herself. Ms. Sherrod recorded that the payments were for expenses such as transportation, or band instruments and uniforms. Examples can be found in the investigative report.

In September 2014, Amy Sherrod was indicted by the Knox County Grand Jury on one count of theft over $10,000.

School Support Organizations have a responsibility to separate financial responsibilities between more than one person to prevent fraud, waste and abuse. Comptroller investigators also recommend that all club checks should require two signatures, and the booster club should ensure that an invoice, receipt, or other adequate document accompanies all disbursements.

The officers of the Carter High School Band Booster Club have indicated they have corrected or intend to correct these deficiencies.

"Booster clubs provide valuable support to many school groups across the state," Comptroller Justin P. Wilson said. "These organizations must also practice sound financial habits to ensure that money is being used for its intended purpose."

To view the investigation online, go to: <http://www.comptroller.tn.gov/ia/>.

If you suspect fraud, waste or abuse of public money in Tennessee, call the Comptroller's toll-free hotline at (800) 232-5454, or file a report online at: www.comptroller.tn.gov/hotline. Follow us on twitter @TNCOT.
