The Letter

Can I just be real with y'all today? I've been a church member my entire life. I was the church pianist from probably age 10 to 24 years old.

I went to revivals, singings, and was at the church house every time the doors were opened. I visited shut-in's and even spent every other Saturday at Brushy Mountain Prison having church with inmates.

I could recite well known Bible verses and often sang solos during church services as a child.

I friended kids at school who were being picked on and even defended my beliefs and stood up to "the mean

...N
 "id" in 5th grade for saying GD.

By all accounts, I appeared to be (and considered myself) a "good" Christian.

Sadly, I was just going through a bunch of motions and not truly seeking a relationship with God. I wanted to do all the things that I thought I was supposed to do, but in all my efforts I missed out on the true blessings of being a Christian. By thinking that being saved was just an escape from hell, I found myself, as Southerners like to call it, "back-slidden" and drowning in a big ole' hot mess of sin!

I was aware of the ongoing sin in my life but the more I let it in, the less it bothered me.

There were times that I wanted to pray to God, usually when things weren't going my way, but I often felt like I kept getting a busy signal. Other times I didn't even try because I felt ashamed and unworthy. Ya'll ever been there? It's not a fun place to be!

When reading in Isaiah this week, I came upon some verses that reminded me of that empty time in my life. Isaiah 59:1-2 "Indeed the Lord's hand is not too short to save, and His ear is not too dead to hear. But your iniquities have built barriers between you and your God, and your sins have made Him hide his face from you so that He does not listen."

This week marks one year since Jeff and I moved to Montana. I have spent a lot of time reflecting on how far God has brought us not just this past year but since we began to understand that Christianity is not just about going to heaven. It's not about singing a pretty song in the choir or getting the family all dressed up for Sunday church. Christianity is being Christ like and comes with more joy than you could ever imagine!!

If you've just been going through the motions, I urge you to repent and enjoy the awesome life that you can have when you surrender to The Lord. I'm talking surrender. Surrender the things that get between you and God. Surrender the things that are not Christ like examples to your kids. Surrender whatever it is that keeps you from studying. Just give it to God. If you are sincere, He will take that junk out of your life. He did mine (and I had LOTS of it)!

If you've never accepted Jesus as your Savior or if you have questions, please feel free to contact us. We would love to share the Plan of Salvation with you!

Egregious Case of Health Care Fraud

Cancer Doctor Admits Prescribing Unnecessary Chemotherapy

Imagine receiving a diagnosis of cancer and then having to go through chemotherapy or other intensive treatments. Then imagine finding out that you never had cancer in the first place and that your doctor—whom you trusted implicitly—merely used you in his scheme to fraudulently bill the federal Medicare program and private insurance companies for hundreds of millions of dollars.

That's exactly what happened to patients of Dr. Farid Fata, a Detroit-area hematologist and oncologist. And it was not only cancer diagnoses. Some patients were told, wrongly, that they had other conditions which required expensive intravenous therapies, medications, and diagnostic tests...all of which jeopardized their health and well-being.

But after a thorough investigation by the FBI, Department of Health and Human Services' Office of Inspector General (HHS-OIG), and the Internal Revenue Service-Criminal Investigations (IRS-CI)—and just before his trial was scheduled to begin—Fata recently pled guilty to 13 health care fraud crimes against his patients, as well as one count of conspiracy to re-

Kenneth Elkins, 35, Homeless, was charged with Fugitive from Justice.

Amber Long, 31, Homeless, was charged with Public Intoxication.

Officer Sam Harrison LPD, came into contact with a suspicious vehicle, with 3 subjects standing around it, parked sideways in the access road of the Marathon gas station located on Hwy 72 in the City of Loudon. The subjects immediately began whispering to each other and conducted furtive movements when my presence was detected. A check through the 911 Center revealed that one of the male subjects, identified as Kenneth Ervin Elkins, was wanted out of the state of Florida on multiple warrants including Burglary. A female subject, later identified as Amber Rose Long, had a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage about her person and breath, had blood-shot eyes, very slurred speech, and was very unsteady on her feet. Long advised she had been drinking liquor this evening and this officer felt she was a danger to herself and to the public at large due to her intoxicated condition. Officer placed Elkins under arrest for being a Fugitive from Justice, and placed Long under arrest for Public Intoxication. Officer Sam Harrison LPD, made the arrest.

ceive kickbacks and two counts of money laundering.

Fata operated a cancer treatment clinic—Michigan Hematology Oncology, P.C.—which had multiple locations throughout Michigan. He also owned a diagnostic testing facility—United Diagnostics, PLLC—in Rochester Hills, Michigan. His case came to light in the summer of 2013, when allegations against him came to the attention of the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of Michigan and the Medicare Fraud Strike Force from the Department of Justice's (DOJ) Criminal Division.

Because of the seriousness of the allegations and the potential risk to the health of Fata's current patients and any future patients, FBI and HHS-OIG investigators, as well as Assistant U.S. Attorneys and DOJ Criminal Division prosecutors, moved quickly to collect corroborating information from employees in his practice. Within days, there was enough evidence to arrest him and shut down his businesses.

After his arrest, agents, prosecutors, and staff at each of the involved agencies worked around the clock to ensure that all of Fata's patients—past and present—got their medical files so they could receive continued care. Investigators and prosecutors also contacted major medical centers in the southeastern Michigan area to ensure that Fata's patients would be taken in quickly by new treating physicians.

In the months that followed, agents and prosecutors pored over billing data, medical records, financial records, and other materials recovered in searches of Fata's businesses. In addition, agents interviewed hundreds of witnesses, including employees, former patients, and family members of patients.

Fata's plea to the health care fraud charges, kickback conspiracy, and money laundering was the culmination of an intensive and extensive investigation. Some of the conduct he admitted to in his guilty plea included:

Administering unnecessary chemotherapy infusions;

Administering unnecessary iron infusions;

Administering unnecessary human growth factors;

Ordering unnecessary cancer tests;

Accepting kickbacks to refer patients for home health care services; and Promoting his cancer test fraud scheme with money laundered from his infusion fraud scheme.

At his upcoming sentencing, Fata faces up to 175 years in prison on the charges he pled guilty to. The U.S. Attorney has stated that prosecutors intend to seek life.
