Unbelievable? Yes This REALLY Happened.

Sometimes the story is just So unbelievable and funny you gotta have evidence. This time is certainly no exception. The evidence was caught by an alert deputy in the hands of the suspect. The Tellico Village man was on his way to court, intoxicated of course, and stopped for a pit stop before going into court. The ash tray was used but not for smoking...

trained and skilled professionals," notes CAC Executive Director Chris Evans-Longmire.

CAC's outreach programs are designed to educate children and adults with the aim of bringing an awareness of the signs, symptoms, and reporting of child abuse. Since 2011, 2,400 adults have participated in "Stewards of Children" training sessions taught by Executive Director Evans-Longmire, an authorized facilitator. Education of adults is critically important because the majority of CAC clients are less than 12 years old and victims of sexual abuse by adults: parents, stepparents, other relatives, or a parent's boyfriend/girlfriend.

In addition to teaching adults, CAC actively seeks to educate students about child abuse. School-based intervention/prevention programs such as SCAN (Stop Child Abuse and Neglect) have effectively reached thousands of students in 22 schools in Loudon, Meigs, Morgan and Roane counties. The value of SCAN, along with the Teen Mom Education/Support Program, can be seen in the lives of students who are empowered to come forward with new knowledge and understanding, courageously applying what they have been taught. The pain of abuse and neglect goes deep and there is no easy fix, but through education and professional counseling, victims can experience healing as the CAC works to end this heart-breaking cycle by putting Kids First.
