Sold Out!

Let's imagine for a moment that you were out walking through a field one spring day enjoying the sunshine and pondering the worries of life and all that you have on your plate. Suddenly you see something shiny sticking up out of the ground and it strikes you as interesting, something in need of a little further investigation.

As you begin to unearth the metallic object

you discover it is an antique box about twelve inches wide and six inches deep. It appears to have a lock on it but the lock is rusted and easily removed. You can tell it has been around for a very long time and it seems quite heavy for a small box. "What is it doing here and what could be in it?" you ask yourself as you pry the lock off.

You open the box to discover that it's filled with hundreds of extremely old, solid gold coins. You just sit there on your knees in total disbelief of what you are holding in your hands. You don't say a word but your thoughts are screaming, "This will change my life forever!"

You are an honest person and realize that to sell the treasure and reap the riches you would undoubtedly be asked where you found it. Since the hidden treasure was unearthed from a field that does not belong to you, others would have reason to claim the treasure and deprive you of a life changing reward.

Knowing that the treasure itself is worth more than anything you have ever imagined, your decision is clear and your heart is excited! The first thing you do is put the box back where you found it and cover it up. You then happily return to your home and sell everything you own including your most prized personal possessions. Your friends and family think you've gone off the deep end but YOU know the reward waiting for you at the end of this journey.

After selling everything you own, you go buy this field containing the answers to all of your prayers and the end of all your worries. You can now claim ownership of the field and everything in it! Your life will never be the same. Those who doubted your decision in the beginning have now come to realize that what you sacrificed was nothing compared to what you gained.

I have just para-

phrased a parable that is documented in much less detail but with the same value, and can be found in one verse of the Bible.

Mathew 13:44 (NKJV) Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and hid; and for joy over it he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

This short parable was told by Jesus to his disciples and there is so much to be learned from it. The main point of this parable is that a relationship with Christ and the assurance of eternal salvation through faith in Him is more valuable than anything we own, desire or can even imagine.

Does Jesus require everyone to sell all they have to be a Christian? Not everyone, but some. He called on the disciples to be His witnesses and told them plainly that they would be persecuted, brought before courts and murdered for the sake of the gospel. Even today Jesus calls missionaries to places on this earth where they are being imprisoned and killed for sharing their faith. Jesus doesn't need our money or any of our stuff, He desires our commitment and our willingness to surrender all that we have to follow Him.

The Apostle Paul said it like this in Philippians 3:7-8; "But what things were gain to me, these I have counted loss for Christ. Yet indeed I also count all things loss for the excellence of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and count them as rubbish, that I may gain Christ"

Many of today's "Christians" tend to go to church on Sunday, slap a Jesus fish on the back of their car next to those stupid looking stick people (Sorry Ms. Kim Caldwell for saying stupid) and maybe listen to a gospel radio station on the way to church. What those folks are missing in a relationship with Jesus is.....well, a relationship with Jesus!

Today's parable tells us that the man who found the treasure went away with joy and sold all that he had. It wasn't hesitantly or with a little reservation, he knew that what he found was worth more than anything he owned.

The same is true regarding a relationship with Jesus. When we really consider how the Creator and Savior of the universe knows our thoughts, knows how many hairs are on (or not on) our heads and loves us so much that He gave His own Son as a sacrifice for our sins so that we could escape judgment and spend eternity with Him in heaven; well I don't know about you but that's more important than anything I had going for myself.

Jesus allows me to wake up each morning, He talks with me, He shows me where He is working and allows me to participate in something that has an eternal impact. As Christians we are invited to be part of something bigger than ourselves. Why do we

Former Alcoa School Official Took Nearly $500,000 in Public Money for Personal Use

A former employee in the Alcoa City School District diverted nearly $500,000 of funds from the district and two professional organizations she represented and spent the money on a variety of personal expenses, an investigation conducted by the Comptroller's office shows.

The investigation, conducted in conjunction with the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation, covered a period of almost six years. During that time, the woman worked as an assistant to the school district's federal projects administrator.

In that capacity, it was her job to help manage the district's spending of federal funds on various projects. She gave the district fraudulent invoices and when she received the money from the district, she diverted it into accounts set up on behalf of the Tennessee Attendance Supervisors Steering Committee and the East Tennessee Attendance Supervisors Association, two professional organizations where she served as treasurer.

Once the funds were in those accounts, she took money for herself through automatic teller machine withdrawals, checks written to cash and checks written to herself. She also wrote checks from one account to pay for her home mortgage, food, jewelry, clothing, iTunes songs and an investment in a local gym.

In addition to the funding from the school district, she spent money collected as participant fees and dues from members of both the steering committee and the attendance supervisors' association.

She also used the school district's credit cards for personal purchases, forging her supervisor's signature on billing statements. And she received reimbursement from the school district for 70 trips she did not take (for which the Comptroller's office examined records back to 2003).

Over the six-year period, investigators calculated that the woman took more than $428,000. Investigators also identified more than $160,000 in questionable spending by the employee. Due to a lack of adequate documentation, it wasn't possible for investigators to determine whether that spending was for valid public purposes or not.

The results of the investigation have been shared with the appropriate district attorneys general and also the United States attorney for the eastern district of Tennessee. Because the woman has not been indicted or arrested yet, she is not being identified by name in this release.

The audit notes that the school district and the two professional organizations didn't have sufficient oversight of the woman's spending.

"This was an egregious misuse of public funds that took place over a long period of time," Comptroller Justin P. Wilson said. "This case emphasizes yet again the importance of following good management and bookkeeping practices to reduce the likelihood of fraud, waste or abuse of public money. I commend our investigators and those from the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation for their work on this case."

To view the audit online, go to: <http://www.comptroller.tn.gov/ia/>.

If you suspect fraud, waste or abuse of public money in Tennessee, you may call the Comptroller's hot line at 1-800-232-5454 or fill out a report online at <http://www.comptroller.tn.gov/shared/safwa.asp>.

treat someone we love? What if we treated our spouses like that?

A relationship with Jesus is a treasure worth more than silver and gold. Jesus can have my house, my money, my cars, my time or my toys. All I want is for Jesus to know that I believe in Him and I offer my life, my thoughts, my words and my dreams to Him so that

His name and His gospel can reach someone who hasn't experienced the treasure of salvation through faith in Him!

How about you friend? Did you keep your stuff and try to take the box of treasure home too? We can't have it both ways.... we either love Christ..... or we don't.... and our lives will show the truth.
