His Way vs Our Way

I am writing to you this morning from a chair that sits in my living room facing a big window to the East. It's still early but the fog is lifting and the sun is beginning to shine bright above the mountains beyond my home. Temperatures today are expected to reach 76 degrees, which will be the warmest since we moved out here. My schedule today is clear and my phone will not be joining me as I plan to go trout fishing on the Missouri River and stay there until I am too tired to fish.

This coming Monday morning I will start a new job that offers a better salary, great benefits and a work schedule that allows me to better plan for ministry opportunities and outreach. I will also have more time to spend with my beautiful bride and more access to a wide range of people in the Helena Valley and beyond.

My daughter has just completed her finals and remains an honor student at ETSU as she is only one semester away from graduating college and becoming a nurse. My son is preparing to leave Ft. Bragg N.C. next Saturday to parachute into Normandy, France in remembrance of D-Day with the U.S. Army. I am proud of my family and at peace this morning with my life.

I also have the assurance of knowing that if the bottom dropped out of my life today and I didn't make it home tonight, it would only mean that I had come face to face with Jesus Christ and was beginning day one of eternity with Him!

The purpose of this short message today is not to gloat or to brag, but to acknowledge the joy, peace and happiness that can be found when we turn our lives from the ways of the world and place our focus on Jesus and His plan for our lives.

It was not that long ago that I was neck deep in debt, my home life was a wreck, I was unhappy with my job and regularly tried to drown my sorrows in a pool of booze. My attitude was horrible, my language was offensive, my friends were few and happiness seemed unattainable.

I am no different than the person reading these words today. I'm not special, not politically connected and certainly not above the lowest of the low. My struggles were no different than your struggles. My weaknesses were no less than yours. Angie and I just came to a place in our lives that we realized our desperate need for Christ and that

He did have a plan for us that included more happiness than we could have imagined!

Our approach to life, our ways, were not of the Lord and therefore not fruitful. How satisfying it is now to have a relationship with the One who made me!! God gave a message to the prophet Isaiah thousands of years ago to deliver to His people and the exact same message applies today:

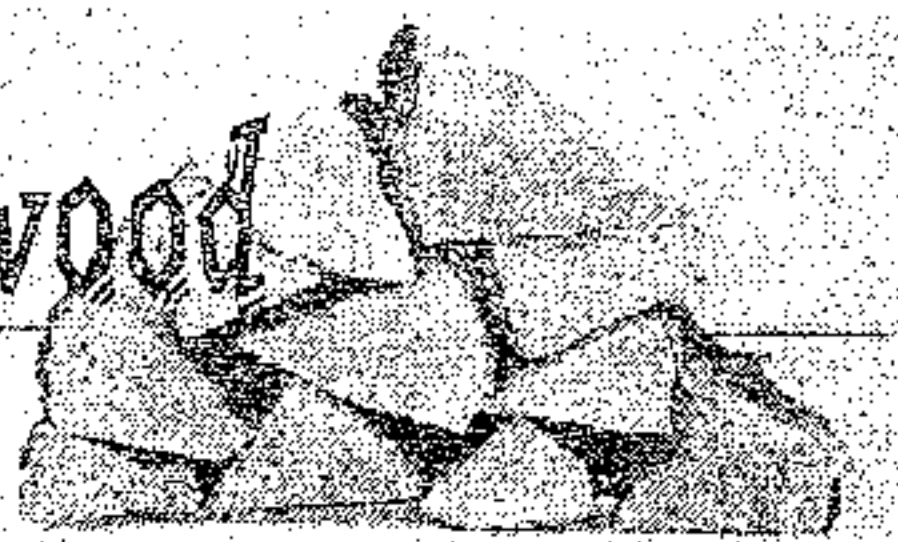

Isaiah 55:6-9 (NKJV) Seek the Lord while He may be found; call upon Him while

He is near; let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, that He may have some compassion on him, and to our God, for He will abundantly pardon. "For My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways My ways, declares the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways and My thoughts than your thoughts."

If you are lost, struggling or just flat out unhappy today, I beg you to consider trying it God's way. He didn't fail me and I am confident that He won't fail you either!

PUBLIC NOTICE

WATER SYSTEM FLUSHING PROGRAM

The Lenoir City Utilities Board and Lenoir City Fire Department will be conducting our semi-annual water distribution system wide flushing program per Tennessee Department of Environment & Conservation Water Quality Control Requirements. The Flushing Program will occur for LCUB customers on Monday, June 9, 2014, at 2:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. thru Thursday, June 12, 2014, at 8:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. The program goals are to identify problems in the water system and ultimately have them corrected. When fire hydrants are flowed, iron deposits in the water lines are agitated. This may cause a brown discoloration to the water in the area which is being flushed. This condition is only temporary and will normally correct itself in a number of hours. During this period of flushing, we recommend that you flow your cold water prior to use to determine if there is any discoloration. While the water is still safe to consume, we recommend not washing any white clothes without first testing the water for discoloration. If your water is discolored, it will clear up on its own under normal usage over a period of time. It is also best to limit the use of your hot water until it's clear, as this will keep the iron deposits from going into your water heater. You may also notice a drop in water pressure during these times; however, the water pressure should return to normal within a short period of time. If you continue to experience difficulty with your water pressure or discoloration on Monday, June 16, 2014, please contact LCUB at (865) 986-6591 to report the problem.

Remembering Our Fallen Agents

Training Accident at Sea Occurred One Year Ago

This month marks the one-year anniversary of the deaths of Chris Lorek and Stephen Shaw, special agents and members of our Hostage Rescue Team who were killed during a training accident off the coast of Virginia.

The two will be honored this week—during National Police Week—and their names will be installed in the FBI's Hall of Honor, a tribute to fallen agents killed in the line of duty throughout the Bureau's history.

As boys, both Chris and Steve dreamed of becoming FBI agents. They achieved that goal and then some, earning places on the Hostage Rescue Team (HRT), the Bureau's celebrated counterterrorism tactical unit that selects few members and undertakes dangerous missions around the globe.

"Chris and Stephen chose to be part of a team that assumes the greatest risk as part of their everyday job, a team that says, 'Yes, we will,' without any hesitation," noted former FBI Director Robert Mueller during a memorial service last year. "And though that kind of motivation—of service over self, even at the greatest cost—is difficult for some to comprehend, it is who they were, and it was in their very DNA, as it is with every member of HRT."

On May 17, 2013, during HRT training at sea near Virginia Beach, the two were fast-roping out of a helicopter when the aircraft encountered serious difficulties, causing the men to fall a significant distance into the water and suffer fatal injuries.

News of the accident sent shockwaves through the HRT and the entire FBI. Chris, 41, and Steve, 40, were both married and each had two children. They lived near Quantico, Virginia, where the HRT is headquartered.

"It was an absolutely tragic day," said Jim Yacone, a former HRT operator and commander of the team. He now leads the Bureau's Critical Incident Response Group (CIRG), of which the HRT is a part. "Whether it's a training exercise or an actual mission, there are no acceptable losses."

Chris and Steve—like all their HRT colleagues—acknowledged and accepted the risks involved with being operators, Yacone explained. "They understood that HRT has to remain mission-ready at all times. They would not want us to stop training or preparing for the most extreme environments and circumstances."

Although the loss of the two popular and respected operators was a blow to the team, Yacone added that they will not be forgotten. "All of us will remember these two outstanding individuals and the contributions they made. Everybody has Chris and Steve in their memory, and that will be a driving force going forward. The team won't want to let them down."

The two are described by their HRT colleagues as talented, professional, and humble. "We have a dangerous job on HRT," one operator said. "In the back of your head you always know there's that ultimate risk, but it doesn't make their loss any easier." He added, "I know for all of us, it felt like we lost a family member, not just teammates."

Yacone suggested that while HRT operators will carry on with their mission, "they will know that Steve and Chris are watching—watching how we perform and how we stand up for them and their memory."
