She admitted to being involved in two drug conspiracies. One conspiracy involved Superior One Medical Clinic, which she co-owned with her mother Barbara Lang, who was also charged in this case. Sentenced

Blake also pleaded guilty to failing to appear after she was released on conditions of bond and became a fugitive. She was apprehended five months later in Maryland, living under an assumed name.

Three others involved in the operation of the clinics were separately convicted and have been sentenced. Dr. Jerome Sherard, the medical director for Superior One and Elite Care, was sentenced to serve five years in prison. Charles Larmore, a nurse practitioner who worked at Superior One and co-defendant Barbara Lang's clinic, Primary Care, received a 13 year prison sentence. Barbara Lang, Blake's mother, was convicted after trial of several offenses including drug conspiracies involving Superior One and Primary Care. She was sentenced to serve 280 years in prison. Over $500,000 in seized assets were forfeited as part of their sentences.

Blake's clinics distributed over 28 kilograms of oxycodone (or almost 1,000,000 tablets of Oxycodone 30mg pills) to thousands of individuals, many of whom illegally abused the drugs and redistributed them to others. Oxycodone pills are typically sold on the street for $1 per milligram. The clinics catered to pill-seeking individuals from the Southeastern United States. At the sentencing hearing, Judge Collier noted that prescription pill abuse is the fastest growing drug problem in the United States. He remarked that Blake's substantial sentence was intended to deter others from engaging in this illegal activity and to keep her from ever committing this type of crime in the future.

"The substantial sentences ordered for these individuals will act as a deterrent for others who may be considering the illegal selling of highly addictive opioids. The defendants' use of the medical training of others to effectuate this criminal scheme was particularly reprehensible. The public should be aware that federal law enforcement officials, in conjunction with the state and local authorities, are focusing on these illegal opioid transactions," said U.S. Attorney Bill Killian.

Daniel R. Salter, Special Agent in Charge of the DEA Atlanta Field Division said, "DEA and its law enforcement counterparts will continue to target and crack down on pill mill operators who distribute pain medications for non-medical reasons. The success of this investigation is a direct result of the hard work and dedication put forth by our federal, state and local law enforcement counterparts."

"Illegally prescribing narcotics for profit is a serious offense," stated Christopher A. Henry, Special Agent in Charge, IRS, Criminal Investigation. "Today's sentencing should send a message to operators of these illegal pill mills that this activity agencies, other state departments that partnered with TDEC were the Tennessee Department of Health, Mental Health and Substance Abuse, Safety and Homeland Security, and Tennessee Bureau of Investigation.

Through TDEC's Pharmaceutical Collection Program, the permanent bins offer a safe and easy way to dispose of unwanted medication, while creating opportunities for residents to promote environmental protection and a safer community. National statistics suggest that nearly 90 percent of Americans improperly dispose of outdated or unwanted prescription and over-the-counter drugs. "This joint effort with local law enforcement agencies and multiple state agencies is important to educate citizens on the appropriate disposal of pharmaceuticals, while increasing the number of locations for them to do so," said TDEC Commissioner Bob Martineau. "We need to make Tennessee citizens aware that throwing medication away with household garbage or flushing it is not a safe method of disposal. These additional permanent collection drop-off boxes offer Tennessee's a safe and viable disposal option to keep drugs out of our water and off the streets."

For communities interested in becoming a permanent drop-off location, please contact Kathy Glapa in TDEC's Office of Sustainable Practices at 615-253-8780 or Kathy.Glapa@tn.gov. For more information about the Pharmaceutical Collection Program, including a complete list of participating counties and acceptable or non-acceptable items, please visit <http://tn.gov/environment/article/sp-unwanted-pharmaceuticals>. For communities that do not have permanent bins, the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency will hold a National Prescription Take Back Day on Saturday, September 26, 2015, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in communities across the country. These annual events are great opportunities for those who have accumulated unwanted, unused prescription drugs, to safely dispose of those medications. To learn more about the DEA's National Take Back Day, including how to find a collection event near you, visit www.deadiversion.usdoj.gov/drug_disposal/takeback/.
