hotline

These tips were reported through telephone calls and online submissions to the hotline.

This year's notifications concerned a wide range of entities including municipalities, counties, state agencies, federal agencies, and non-profit recipients of government funds. Substantive notifications are reviewed and investigated by Comptroller staff or referred to the appropriate agency or program for further action.

Since October 1983, the Comptroller of the Treasury has provided a toll-free hotline for any citizen to report government fraud, waste and abuse. Additionally, all state agencies, as well as agencies receiving community grant funds, are required to call attention to the hotline by posting a sign in a prominent place.

"The hotline plays an important role in holding government accountable to its citizens," said Comptroller Justin P. Wilson. "While I'm pleased to see the hotline is serving its purpose, the ultimate goal is to eliminate fraud, waste and abuse in government."

If you suspect fraud, waste or abuse of public money in Tennessee, call the Comptroller's toll-free hotline at (800) 232-5454, or file a report online at: www.comptroller.tn.gov/hotline. Follow us on twitter @TNCOT in federal custody since his arrest in June 2015.

The indictment and subsequent conviction of Smallman was the result of an investigation conducted by the Washington County Sheriff's Office. Assistant U.S. Attorney Helen Smith represented the United States.

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Neighborhoods (PSN), a comprehensive national strategy that creates local partnerships with law enforcement agencies to effectively enforce existing gun laws. It provides more options to prosecutors, allowing them to utilize local, state, and federal laws to ensure that criminals who commit gun crime face tough sentences. PSN gives each federal district the flexibility it needs to focus on individual challenges that a specific community faces.
