issued $2,490 in fraudulent payroll checks to herself.

Former public housing manager Leslie Jackson stole $5,405 from the South Pittsburg Housing Authority. This included a $2,755 trip to Chicago for a conference that Ms. Jackson never attended, and personal purchases on a Lowe's account totaling at least $2,649. These purchases included lumber and other supplies to build a pavilion next to the swimming pool at her home.

Investigators also discovered that $95,595 in cash collections had been stolen from the two housing authorities. Generally, Ms. Brooks and Ms. Jackson were responsible for collecting cash and making deposits. Both women admitted they were aware that bank deposits had been manipulated.

On June 1, 2015 the Marion County Grand Jury indicted Jan Brooks on one count of theft over $60,000 and one count of theft over $10,000. Leslie Jackson was indicted on one count of theft over $1,000.

"The amount of theft in this case is alarming," Comptroller Justin P. Wilson said. "While it's easy to blame the criminal behavior of two individuals, housing authority officials must also take the necessary steps to shore up a number of issues which allowed these thefts to occur."
