Director Comey Praises Citizens Academy Alumni Association

The Citizens Academy—one of the FBI's most successful community outreach programs—is designed to give civic, business, and religious leaders around the country a firsthand look at how the Bureau investigates crimes and deals with national security threats.

More than 18,000 people have graduated from the program, and many then join one of the 60 non-profit alumni associations nationwide whose mission is to support the FBI through volunteer community action. Last week in San Francisco, at the alumni group's annual leadership conference, Director James Comey commended participants for their efforts.

Neighbors, families, groups, and artists were challenged to transform an ordinary 5 gallon water jug into "piggy banks" designed to collect change for Imagination Library books. Nearly 30 banks will be on display representing everything from rocket ships, pigs, and trains to the Lady Bug Girl. Prizes will be given for the people's choice and best in each category. Attendees are encouraged to bring their spare change to put in their favorite banks or they can buy coins onsite to support their favorite banks.

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library is administered locally by the Knox County Public Library and is supported by a board of advisors responsible for raising the funds to send out nearly 19,000 free books every month to children under 5. Research shows that having books in the home of young children is one of the most revealing indicators of long term success in school. Children who are read to on a daily basis from birth have an increased likelihood of reading on grade level at the third grade.

Banks for Books and the Imagination Library Party celebrating 2 million books is made possible through the generous support of Food City, Culligan, Home Federal Bank, Knoxville Museum of Art, Knoxville News Sentinel, munity that includes all of us inside the FBI and a lot of people who are doing community service outside the FBI," Comey said, describing alumni association members as indispensable to the Bureau.

"Everything the FBI tries to accomplish depends upon the American people believing us, trusting us, and seeing us for what I believe we are—honest, competent, and independent," he explained. "The problem we face is that most people don't get a clear look at us. Most people see us only as what they see on TV and in the movies."

Through the Bureau's community outreach efforts, Comey said, "We work hard to get people to try and know us, and there is nothing as important in that effort as the Citizens Academy. We invite in leaders from all walks of life, and we say, 'Take a look at us, form your own conclusions, and then participate in conversations about us with the American people.'"

Tammy Denbo is a case in point. Despite being a former assistant state attorney near Tampa Bay, Florida, Denbo said, "I had no idea about the inner workings of the FBI and how the organization works to keep the country safe. I found the Citizens Academy to be an incredibly rewarding experience."

After she graduated from the program, Denbo joined her local alumni association chapter and eventually became its president. At last week's conference, she was installed as the National Citizens Academy Alumni Association president.

"I wanted to find a way to give back to the FBI for everything they have given to me," she said, noting that alumni association members reflect the country's diverse communities and represent a direct conduit between those communities and the FBI.

From a national perspective, the alumni association undertakes initiatives such as distributing child safety information and educating the public about human trafficking. In addition, individual chapters are free to pursue their own projects, depending on the needs of the community.

"We also try to inform people that the FBI is not just coming to knock on the door and make arrests," she said. "We help people understand that the FBI is actively engaged in trying to prevent crime and making neighborhoods safer." She added that each of the 60 Citizens Academy Alumni Association chapters are distinct entities from the FBI and receive no taxpayer dollars. Operating funds are raised through sponsorships and dues.

"What you are engaged in is public service," Comey told the group in San Francisco, "and your commitment is incredibly important to the FBI." He added, "I just flew all the way across the country for no other reason than to thank you. You are making a tremendous difference for the Bureau and for the entire nation."

Loudon County Sheriff's Office Toys for Tots 2015

Thanks to the generosity year after year of the Loudon County residents, churches, businesses and industries, the Loudon County Sheriff's Office is once again able to offer the Toys for Tots program. We are beginning our 31st year of providing toys to the needy children of Loudon County, and thanks to generous contributions of time, money and gifts, we are able to make Christmas a more joyful time for more and more children. In 2014, approximately 500 children were helped by the Loudon County Sheriff's Department Toys for Tots program through their partners. Even with the difficult economic times we are experiencing, we hope that the people of Loudon County will be there once again to help. Beginning Tuesday, September 8, the 2015 applications will be available at the Loudon County Sheriffs Office. Applications will be accepted for children from Age 1 through 8th grade that are enrolled in the Loudon County or Lenoir City School systems. ALL applications must be returned to the Loudon County Sheriff's Department by 4 PM, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 2015. It is requested that everyone please submit their application as soon as possible. Applications must also include a copy of the parent or guardian's current income information. A current Tennessee Driver's License or State Issued ID is required from the parent, and a copy of the child's social security card is also required.

Names will be available beginning in mid-October through business and churches. If you are considering helping a child this Christmas, please be assured that applicants are thoroughly checked to make sure they require this assistance. Names are also compared with the school systems to make sure no one is receiving duplicate assistance.

If your business or church would be willing to take names please call Debbie Hines, Toys for Tots Coordinator at 986-4823.
