Stolen

Chassidy Nowlin, West Fourth Avenue, told Detective Patrick Upton, LCSD, she had left her Chrysler Sirius in the care of a man she identified while she incarcerated at the Loudon County Jail and someone took the catalytic converter off it.

Nowlin said she discovered the theft when she drove the vehicle and noticed it was loud. She asked the man she had left it with what happened to it and he said he didn't know.

The investigator noted Nowlin further advised the car was located at a Crooked Oak Drive residence and the value of the loss was estimated at $200.

The case is under investigation.

Burglary

sponded to a Loudon County residence at approximately 12:52 a.m. where he spoke with two young women who said they were upstairs getting ready for bed when they heard the front door knob turn and saw shadows inside their home.

One of the women said she heard footsteps in the kitchen and called 9-11 just before she heard a car door open and close. She did not, however, actually see anyone inside the residence and could give no descriptions.

The officer reported he checked the home and could find no signs of forced entry, and the women could find nothing missing at the time of his arrival. A footprint was found on the back porch, but it could not be determined if it had been made by an intruder or by one of the women.

KAPOW

KAPOW wrestling made its return to Lenoir City Saturday night with big hits and changing allegiances on the card! In a shocker that stunned the crowd on hand, it was announced that KAPOW wrestling had somehow been bought from under the current owners in a backdoor deal by a foreign investor who immediately made his presence felt at the event. Championship matches were changed and chaos reigned in KAPOW.

Another controversy during the event was the appearance of crowd favorite "Buggy Boy." I've got news for the new owner of KAPOW, there wasn't one person in the arena that was fooled by that attempted slick-willy! So the question that is being asked around town is this: Where is the REAL "Buggy Boy"!!!! Cause that sure wasn't him in the ring on Saturday night.

While we're on the subject of slick-willying people, what in the world was up with fat boy "sweetness" and his little blonde boy-toy?? You're lucky that Shane "The King" Williams didn't take your head completely off.

Not that the other matches were bad or anything like that, (they were all great), but I have to address this Robbie Race/Donovan Daniels thing. First off, Daniels, you got exactly what you deserved! If it hadn't been for Ol' Big Mouth Rich and your little harem buddy, you head would be as smooth as a baby's butt right now. Robbie put you down, put you out, and given enough time would have given you a nice little trim off the top. And here I was thinking you were a man of your word. You lost, the hair should come off, but I guess that's too much to ask from the likes of you. As always, all mouth, no action. But I will guarantee you won't interfere in anyone else's matches will you?

Robbie, way to put that punk down. Maybe next time a couple of your friends will help you make Daniels pay up on his debt. Or at the very least watch your back while you do it. I know that I want to see it.

In every wrestling organization in the world people eventually get what's coming to them. Maybe not today, maybe not tomorrow, but it ALWAYS happens!

Check out KAPOW action in December!

Computer Drive

Gene Walker, LCSD, they noticed the front cover on a computer at the library was not latching and the power button would not work. They placed an Out of Order sign on it until a computer repairman could come fix.

Hammontree advised the repairman came about a week and discovered someone had stolen the Hewlett Packard CD/DVD reader/writer from it and had tried to replace it with a CD drive.

The illicit replacement was taken for evidence purposes.

The stolen drive was valued at $150.

Police Beat

Lydia Thomas Helms, 50, of Mare-mont Parkway, Loudon, was charged with driving on revoked 2nd, and DUI 2nd.

According to the report, Sgt. Brian Jenkins, LPD observed Ms. Thomas entering her vehicle and she was unsteady on her feet. Deputy Blake Norman advised her license was revoked for DUI.

Ms. Thomas had very glossy and bloodshot eyes and she reported she had taken oxycodone and xanax. A BAC test was done at the hospital. Deputy Blake Norman, LPD made the arrest.

Tips

utilities.

This winter is forecast to be four % colder than the 2006-2007 winter, according to the Energy Information Administration (EIA). In addition, the EIA anticipates heating costs will increase as follows: natural gas up 9.5 percent, electricity 3.9 percent, heating oil 21.8 percent, and propane 16.3 % or an average of approximately 9.8 percent.

"As the days grow chillier," Attorney General Cooper said, "consumers can take important steps to save on their energy bills and to help save our environment through the prudent use of non-replaceable fuels."

Heating and cooling your home is the single largest energy expense for homeowners and because energy costs are expected to be higher, the Attorney General suggests to consumers the following simple steps you can take to save money on your energy utility bills:

*Carefully inspect your home for cracks and gaps and seal any you find. Common sources of air leaks include cracks around windows and doors, gaps along baseboards, mail chutes, cracks in brick, siding, stucco or foundation, or where any external lines (phone, cable, electric, and gas) enter the home. Plugging air leaks with caulking, sealing, or weather stripping can save 10 % or more on your energy bill.

*Lower your thermostat. You can make a big difference in your heating bill by keeping your home at a slightly lower temperature. Lowering your thermostat one degree can cut as much as 10% % off your overall heating bill.

*Defrost your freezer. The frost and ice that builds up in your freezer over time causes your freezer to work harder to keep the freezer at a cold temperature. Routine defrosting will improve its efficiency.

*Consider solar heating. Keep windows on the south side of your house clean to let in the winter sun.

*Close curtains and shades. Close your curtains and shades at night to keep heat in and open them during the day to bring the natural heat into your home.

*Lower the temperature of your water heater and drain occasionally. Although you need to keep your water heater above 120 degrees to prevent bacteria from building up, many hot water heaters are set too high. Draining some water from a water heater a few times a year reduces sediment and increases efficiency.

*Add additional insulation. Adequate insulation in your attic, ceilings, exterior and basement walls, floors, and crawl spaces, as recommended for your geographical area, can save you up to 30 % on home energy bills.

*Add an insulation blanket to your hot water heater. The standard hot water heater is on all the time, so adding extra insulation will save more energy than you might think. Most hardware stores sell pre-made insulator "jackets" that can be easily wrapped around your water heater. Adding insulation to your water heater and any exposed pipes can knock up to 15 % off the costs of heating water.

*Replace your most frequently used incandescent bulbs with compact fluorescent bulbs. Compact fluorescent light bulbs use up to 75 % less energy as standard incandescent bulbs. The bulbs will pay for themselves since they last approximately 10 times as long as the traditional bulb.
