The Green Island grant program is a competitive funding opportunity available to retail fuel station owners and farmer co-ops interested in promoting and selling biofuels.

The goal of the Green Island Grant Program is to establish a state-wide network of publicly accessible B20 and E85 refueling stations, particularly along interstates and major highways. This project will encourage and expand the use of biofuels in Tennessee, help reduce vehicle emissions and protect public health, and help Tennessee's farmers and agricultural community.

This grant program will assist a limited number of retail fuel stations with the capital costs of converting or installing fuel storage tanks and dispensing equipment to sell B20 and/or E85. The maximum grant award is $45,000 per E85 or B20 fuel system. Retail station owners must provide at least 20% of the total project costs.

The grant application deadline is February 15, 2008. For more information about the Biofuels Green Island Corridor Network grant program or to view the project application package, visit the TDOT website at www.tn.gov/tdot/biofuel/application.htm.

A Variety of Options with Chicken

Variety, enjoyment and flavor are key components to healthful meals. When you think chicken, how does it measure up? Chicken offers tremendous versatility due to its very mild taste. Chicken can be roasted, baked, oven-fried, grilled, stewed or even microwaved. For variety, season chicken with different herbs such as tarragon, chives, or basil, try teriyaki, parmesan, lemon, cajun, or BBQ. Boneless chicken breast cooks quickly and makes a great addition to salads, pasta, stir-fried vegetables, or mixed with fruit for chicken salad. To enjoy chicken safely, cook until it reaches 160 degrees fahrenheit or until juices run clear. If there are leftovers, wrap them tightly and store in the refrigerator for no longer than three to four days or in the freezer for up to four months. If you are tired of plain chicken, experiment with new seasonings or use the many different summer vegetables to flavor-up chicken. (From the American Dietetic Association & TDOH)
