Did you catch the Presidential Democratic Debate the other night? I didn't either, I just can't stomach the fact that the election is still a year and a half away and I am afraid that we will have to see more of this election than any other election in history.

Don't get me wrong, I am looking forward to watching the show, but not just yet. Heck, all the players aren't (see Gus pg. 3)

HoroscopesCancer

(Jun 22-Jul 22)

You don't feel the need to brag or bluster, but other people may mistake that for meekness (or weakness). You have nothing to prove, which is why you're able to flout people's expectations so effectively.

Leo

(Jul 23-Aug 23)

If you've been burning the candle at both ends, now is a great time to give yourself a rest. If your brain is still running a million miles an hour, get outside and take yourself for a walk. It'll divert that energy.

Virgo

(Aug 24-Sep 23)

Do you honestly want to take that tone when talking with a loved one -- especially about such an important topic? Watch your body language while you're at it, too. The effort you make now will pay off later.

Libra

(Sept 24-Oct 23)

Someone has unorthodox ideas and wants to communicate them to the world at large. This person might be you or a loved one. Either way, you have the perfect strategy to get their message across to the right people.

Scorpio

(Oct 24-Nov 22)

Yes, you have to make a bargain every now and then, but to be an effective negotiator, you also have to know what you absolutely won't give up in exchange for everything. That position gives you strength.

Sagittarius

(Nov 23-Dec 21)

Ouch! Someone keeps saying that there will be a big price to pay, but you know it's cheap for the going price of admission. Don't let this person's bluster scare you away from your desired goal.

Capricorn

(Dec 22-Jan 20)

Pride. Ultimately, it's expendable and renewable. If your ego is getting in the way of a task that you know you must accomplish, it's time to jettison it before it derails your plans. You're bigger than this.

Aquarius

(Jan 21-Feb 19)

Why divide everything into wrong or right, or white or black? Instead, see if you can divvy up people and experiences into life lessons or ultimately unimportant. What a difference a change in attitude makes.

Pisces

(Feb 20-Mar 20)

In the past, you've confused acting in your own interests with being self-centered or reckless. The truth is, learning how to take care of your own needs is one of the most responsible things you can do.

Aries

(Mar 21-Apr 20)

Just because someone pays you a compliment doesn't mean you owe them something. Keep reminding yourself what your original intent was, and don't be swayed off your course. You have a goal in mind, so get there.

Taurus

(Apr 21-May 20)

At this point in your life, there are a lot of big issues coming up. You realize that you need to do some thinking. It's a good moment to get away from it all. Schedule in some soul-searching soon.

ing you would swear that the election was this November. Not to mention that depending on how the Republican's vote on this immigration policy, there could be a bunch of Conservatives voting for someone other than a Republican. It ought to get pretty interesting within both parties before it's over.

See, some of us are still watching and waiting for one of these crazy terrorist to get lucky, because they have not quit, nor will they if we left the Mid East tonight. 90% of the so called politicians these day are more worried about trying to stay a politician than they are about serving our great nation and the American people.

You know what we ought to do just to mess with them? Every single US citizen ought to throw their name in the hat for some sort of elected office this year. Who knows, it might at least put a little scare in them or at best, get some USA loving politicians in office. -Gus event, which takes place simultaneously across North America, will run June 5-June 7.

During the 72-hour period, State Troopers will conduct round-the-clock roadside inspections at all nine weigh stations along Tennessee highways. Troopers will conduct Level 1 inspections on all trucks stopped with added emphasis on safety belt usage by commercial vehicle drivers. While the Commercial Vehicle Safety Alliance (CVSA) estimates only about 48% of truck drivers nationally adhere to the federal law requiring safety belt usage, the number of commercial vehicle drivers in Tennessee far exceeds the national average at 77%. Authorities contribute that increase to both stringent enforcement and increased education.

"Tennessee conducts a high number of commercial vehicle inspections on a regular basis, including the recent Operation S.T.O.P. which proved very successful," stressed Department of Safety Commissioner David Mitchell. "We are pleased to participate in the National Roadcheck 2007 to help draw attention to the importance of these inspections for the good of public safety."

In 2006, State Troopers conducted over 73,000 inspections resulting in 5,323 vehicles and 4,886 drivers being placed out-of-service.

"Commercial vehicle inspection is a priority of the Tennessee Highway Patrol, and inspections are an integral part of our enforcement," says THP Commander, Colonel Mike Walker. "Participation in Roadcheck 2007 is another reminder that Tennessee is serious about commercial vehicle enforcement and public safety."

The major objective of Roadcheck 2007 is to remove unsafe commercial vehicle drivers and vehicles from the highways. Level 1 inspections are the most thorough and comprehensive inspections and involve all components of the commercial vehicle and driver documents.

Stop

On Monday, June 4 a man was alleged to have made threats against himself to his employer. Fearing the man may have been armed with a .50 caliber handgun, law enforcement officials were notified.

On the corner of Broadway deputies and police executed a felony traffic stop where the man was detained. A search of the vehicle revealed that there was no gun present and the subject claimed to not have made any such comments.

After talking to detectives the man was released into the custody of his parents.
