Gus

ing a poor Louisiana neighborhood, his Lawyer brain was in a different mode; it was figuring out a way to make a buck.

I really do believe if he doesn't find some first aid, it's going to be lights out for the Edwards Campaign. He was the one that kept talking about Two America's, and he is correct, there are those of us stuck in a society which is being taken over by bloodthirsty lawyers.

Look at it for a minute: try and file a copy-write on something, go in front of a judge, buy a house, start a business, and all aspects of government are basically run in direct coalition with lawyers. If you start looking closely, Lawyers have their greedy little hands on everything.

If there was ever a person that needs to be kept out of office, it's a Lawyer. I will leave you with my favorite Lawyer joke:

The devil visited a lawyer's office and made him an offer. "I can arrange some things for you," the devil said. "I'll increase your income five-fold. Your partners will love you; your clients will respect you; you'll have four months of vacation each year and live to be a hundred. All I require in return is that your wife's soul, your children's souls, and their children's souls rot in hell for eternity."

The lawyer thought for a moment. "What's the catch?" he asked.

time of year and usually runs its course by early to mid-October.

"We probably are getting more reports because the drought is concentrating deer around the same watering holes and deer are being bitten by gnats that transmit EDH," noted Steve Patrick, the manager of TWRA's Region II office. "Deer do not transmit this disease to other deer. It is carried by the fly and some deer fall prey to its bite."

Wildlife officers in Middle Tennessee have received numerous reports from landowners, who often find dead deer alongside ponds or creeks.

Deer usually become progressively weaker as the disease sets in, lose their appetite and fear of man, salivate excessively, develop a rapid pulse and respiration rate, and eventually become unconscious.

"As the deer begins to die, EHD drives deer toward water because they are thirsty," explained Patrick. "Some callers are worried that deer might have chronic wasting disease, but we do not have chronic wasting disease in Tennessee."

EDH normally ends after the first frost, which kills the vector that carries it, according to TWRA. It can impact local populations of deer, but usually is not a threat to the overall statewide population.

"This particular disease is not a danger to humans or fatal to other animals," noted Patrick. "But it is tough on deer."
