Assistance

see counties as primary natural disaster areas for agriculture due to extreme drought.

"I'm pleased that USDA has acted on my request," said Bredesen. "This designation will be critical in getting much needed federal farm assistance in the hands of Tennessee farmers, who can begin the process of recovering from this year's drought and planning for next year."

Bredesen made the request in separate letters to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ed Schafer on September 22 and October 8. The counties are: Anderson, Benton, Bledsoe, Blount, Bradley, Cannon, Carroll, Claiborne, Coffee, Fentress, Franklin, Grainger, Greene, Grundy, Hamblen, Hamilton, Hancock, Hawkins, Henry, Jefferson, Knox, Lake, Lauderdale, McMinn, Meigs, Monroe, Morgan, Overton, Pickett, Polk, Rhea, Scott, Smith, Unicoi, Union, Warren, Washington, Weakley and Wilson.

The designation makes farmers in these and adjoining counties eligible to apply for assistance through their local USDA Farm Service Agency. Farmers are eligible to be considered for emergency loans, livestock assistance and supplemental farm payments as provided by the Food, Conservation and Energy Act of 2008.

Bredesen this week also requested a secretarial disaster designation for seven additional counties including Carter, Cumberland, DeKalb, Loudon, Roane, Sullivan and Trousdale.

Farmers in these areas have suffered crop losses for corn and soybeans ranging from 30 to 65 percent. Livestock producers are reporting low hay stocks going into the winter months due to parched pastures and significantly reduced hay yields this summer and fall.

For livestock producers needing to buy or looking to sell hay, the Tennessee Department of Agriculture and Tennessee Farm Bureau cooperatively manage the Tennessee Hay Directory. A listing of local and out-of-state sources of hay can be found at www.picktnproducts.org.

For a weekly report on crop conditions across the state, visit www.nass.usda.gov/tn. The U.S. Department of Agriculture makes this report available every Monday after 3 p.m. CST April through November.

Thanksgiving recipes: Brined Roast Turkey

Serves about 24

1 (18 pound) turkey, neck and giblets removed
2 cups kosher salt
1/2 cup melted butter
2 large onions, chopped
4 carrots, chopped
4 stalks celery, chopped
2 sprigs fresh thyme
1 bay leaf
1 cup dry white wine

Rub the turkey inside and out with the kosher salt. Place the turkey in a large clean bucket or other waterproof container large enough to hold the turkey, and cover with cold water. Place in the refrigerator or other cool place and allow the turkey to soak in the salt and water mixture overnight or 12 hours maximum. Pre-heat oven to 350 F. Remove turkey from water, discard the water and rinse the turkey in fresh water. Pat dry. With a pastry brush, brush the turkey with half the melted butter. Place the turkey breast side down on a roasting rack in a shallow roasting pan. Stuff the turkey cavity with half the chopped onion, half the carrots, half the celery, 1 sprig of thyme, and the bay leaf. Scatter the remaining vegetables and thyme around the bottom of the roasting pan, and cover with the white wine. Roast uncovered 3-1/2 to 4 hours or until the internal temperature of the thigh reaches 180 F. Baste often. Turn the turkey breast side up about 2/3 through the roasting time, and brush with the remaining butter. Continue to baste often. Allow the turkey to stand about 30 minutes before carving.
