brought to my attention when I headed back to the ramp early to set up for the weigh-in. I had everything ready and was sitting in the Rover reading The Daily Edition, when I noticed this fellow in a maroon Honda pull into a parking spot. Nothing unusual about that, but then another older fellow wearing black leather from head to foot, driving a silver subcompact car, pulled in beside the maroon car.

The driver stepped out, he had on jeans with the legs rolled up to his knees, tank top (remember it was cold as crap), flip flops, and his pants were unbuttoned and pulled down a bit.

They chit-chatted for a few, then drove up to the mens rest room.

that nothing is more important than the safety and well being of our children," said Governor Phil Bredesen. "We are extremely proud that Tennessee was the first state with a child safety seat law and led the way for the nation. Within six years, every other state in the country had followed our example with a similar law to save children's lives."

More than 30 years ago, Dr. Robert Sanders of Murfreesboro became a passionate advocate for child safety and led the effort to protect children while riding in automobiles. Senator Douglas Henry, the late Representative John Bragg and former Representative Mike Murphy sponsored legislation to make Tennessee the first state to require the use of safety seats for child passengers. The law became effective on January 1, 1978.

Today, Tennessee is one of only 18 states that currently require children up to the age 8 to be restrained in a booster seat. The National Highway Traffic Safety Admin-

According to preliminary figures, 12 children under the age of five were killed in car crashes in Tennessee in 2007. One-third of them were not restrained. Studies show child seats reduce the likelihood of an infant (under one year old) being killed in a vehicle crash by 71 percent and toddlers (one to four years old) by 54 percent.

Beckett

ly apprehended on Commerce St at the laundry mat, as he attempted to evade arrest by running away from law enforcement. The individual was identified as Henry P. Beckett Jr out of Canton Illinois.

A records check showed Beckett has never had a license in any state. Beckett had an extremely strong odor of an alcoholic beverage about his person and breath and had very slurred speech. Beckett was verbally combative to law enforcement and medical personnel on the scene, and admitted to drinking liquor prior to the accident. Beckett was transported to Fort Loudon Medical Center ER for injuries sustained during the vehicle accident and consented to a BAC test at the hospital.

While being transported to the jail by Sgt. RS Newman he observed Beckett going through his belongings and noticed a small pipe in his possession. The pipe had a small screen in one end along with what appeared to be marijuana residue. While transporting Mr. Beckett he began moving around in the back seat of the cruiser and refused to answer the officer when he asked what Beckett was doing. While at the jail Mr. Beckett placed a small baggie containing a green leafy substance in a cast on his foot. Mr. Beckett stated he placed the marijuana in his cast to keep deputies from finding it.

Henry Peter Beckett Jr., 26, of East Cypress St., Canton, IL was charged with felony reckless endangerment, DUI 1st, driving without a license, evading arrest, leaving the scene of an accident and vandalism. Officer Samuel Harrison, LPD made the arrest.

Beckett was then charged with poss. of drug paraphernalia and introduction of drugs into a penal facility. Sgt. Newman made the arrest.
