Caffeine: A Wake-Up Call

Do you rely on coffee each morning to jump-start your day? Caffeine is a stimulant that can fight fatigue, enhance mood and boost performance, but what impact does it have on health? For most healthy adults, moderate amounts of caffeine—about two cups of coffee—pose no health problems. However, caffeine can have a diuretic effect, increasing water loss through urination. So it's not something you want to consume in excess.

Caffeine is found in greatest amounts in coffee and over-the-counter drugs, but it is also found in tea, small amounts of chocolate and soft drinks. Determine how much caffeine is safe for you by checking with your physician or registered dietitian and keeping track of how much you consume. (From the American Dietetic Association) more driver license centers were added to the five driver license centers that began providing reinstatement services in 2007. In February, six more offices in East Tennessee are adding reinstatement services to bring the number of counties with centers offering reinstatements to seventeen. Five centers have previously offered reinstatements as part of regular service.

Department of Safety Commissioner Dave Mitchell stated, "We realize how difficult it is for those with a suspended or revoked license to work and contribute to our economy without a valid driver license.

Our goal is to eventually move reinstatement services to all driver license centers. We hope to have examiners trained to offer reinstatement services in every driver license office by the end of 2008."

The purpose of integrating financial responsibility functions into driver license centers is to make the services more accessible to the public and ease the ability to regain the privilege to drive. Some of the most common reasons a license is suspended or revoked is due to a DUI conviction, failure to pay driving citations and failure to show proof of insurance.

Since November 1, 2007, customers in the Nashville,

Memphis and Knoxville areas have been able to visit selected driver licenses centers for reinstatement services. In Nashville, some customers may still be confused that reinstatements are still being offered at the Foster Avenue Headquarters location. That service was discontinued on November 1, 2007. These services are now available at the Hart Lane and West Nashville locations.

Drivers wanting to reinstate their license are also urged to call the Toll Free number at (866) 903-7357 or visit our website at www.tennesseeanytime.org/tndlr or www.tennessee.gov to determine precisely what information and documentation is necessary for reinstatement before visiting the Driver License Centers.

Motorists may also pay reinstatement fees using a credit or debit card, either online at these websites, or at the driver license centers offering reinstatement services.

Tennesseans, with a suspended or revoked license, will need documentation, such as proof of insurance (SR-22 Insurance form) and proof of citations and fees paid in order to successfully reinstate their license. Documentation evidencing United States citizenship, Lawful Permanent Residency or an authorized stay in this country is also required to reinstate a driver license. The requirements of reinstatement are based on the reason the driver license was suspended/revoked. In Tennessee, there are currently over 700,000 canceled, suspended or revoked drivers who need reinstatement services in order to regain a valid driving privilege.

When the reporter was finished, Toad turned the TV off and started going into one of his "It's all the government's fault," rants.

He is partially correct in his thoughts; I know the government didn't actually do this terrible act, but they do make it easy for these nuts to do what it is they do by not letting law abiding citizens carry firearms to protect themselves on college campuses or any other government facility.

There is truth in this.

When's the last time you heard of a mass shooting at a fishing club or a tractor pull or any other place where people meet where it is legal to carry? You don't. These massacres usually happen at a places where these chicken #####s know the citizens will be UNARMED. -Gus

Dining Out with your Children

Eating out with your children might be a 1838 Kentucky passes law permitting women to attend school under conditions meals a healthful and educational experience for the whole family as you teach your kids how to make healthful food choices:

* Go to restaurants that offer healthy options on the children's menu.

* Pass on the kids' menu altogether and order from the regular menu. Splitting a meal means instant portion control for you, too!

* Narrow the choices down to two or three items from the menu, then let your child make the final decision on what to order. This can help children learn to make healthful eating choices.

* Don't encourage kids to clean their plate. Restaurant portions can be very big. Instead, bring leftovers home.

You are your child's most important role model. Dining out with your children lets them see you make smart choices and exercise portion control, too. (From the American Dietetic Association)
