Fishing with Gus

I stopped down at Toad's Bait Shop Friday morning to pick up the new Spring Catfish Tournament schedule and it looks like a good bunch of tournaments are going to be held this year. Have 10 tournaments on Fort Loudoun and Watt's Bar Lakes. Toad was watching the news on TV and re-painting his work shop, seems that he had a small problem with everything being colored camouflage. Last week a hot ember popped out of the wood stove and caught his bear skin rug on fire. That wasn't that big of a deal, that old bear has been on fire more than once, but this time Toad couldn't find his camouflage fire extinguisher that was hanging right where it has hung for 10 years. He ended up dumping a bucket full of water and dead minnows on the fire. The place still had a smell of roasted minnow, burnt hair and paint fumes and Toad was a cussing at the TV the whole time I was there, going on about this whole Knox County P-Cards issue. Toad and Politics just don't mix. He said something about Ol Henry's roofing tar and a sack full of yellow chicken feather.

Eating Right as a Vegetarian

Can vegetarian eating supply your body with enough nutrients?

The answer is yes. Both vegetarian and nonvegetarian eating styles can be healthful. The bottom line depends on your food choices over time. Studies show a positive link between vegetarian eating and health.

In general, heart disease, high blood pressure, adult-onset diabetes, obesity and some forms of cancer tend to develop less often among vegetarians than nonvegetarians.

If you're considering a vegetarian lifestyle, follow these tips to help you get started:

Make a list of all the meatless dishes you already enjoy.

Browse through vegetarian cookbooks and write down recipes that sound appealing.

Go to a natural food store and experiment with some products.

Try meat-alternative products made with soy.

For help on developing a vegetarian eating plan, contact a registered dietitian. (From the American Dietetic Association) Madisonville woman charged with leaving scene
