then bit her on the nose and started gouging at her eyes with his thumbs. The officer reported the victim had swollen eyes, knots about her head and several marks about her neck and handprints about her neck.

On talking with Mr. Lay and asking him what happened Lay stated to the officer "he beat the $%#@ out of her". Lay had been drinking and had a strong odor of an intoxicating beverage about his person, slurred speech and blood shot eyes.

Paul McKinley Lay, 29, of Knox St., Philadelphia, was charged with aggravated assault by domestic violence. Deputy Craig Brewer, LCSO made the arrest.

Drivers

20, Grimes Road, Loudon was charged with driving on suspended license 2nd offense.

According to records, Deputy Rondel M. Branam, LCSO responded to a wreck with injury at Steekee Creek Road and Fork Creek Road and made contact with Mr. Collins, the driver of a black Mitsubishi Eclipse involved in the accident.

Collins produced a Tennessee drivers license, but a check of that license through NCIC came back suspended for failure to satisfy a citation out of Loudon County.

No other information was available at the time of the report.

Jacinto Lorenzo Severiano, 24, Poplar Street, Loudon with driving on revoked license.

According to reports, Sgt. R.S. Newman, LPD received a call of a wreck with no injury on Mulberry Street in Loudon and upon arrival Mr. Severiano was standing beside his Ford Ranger.

According to the other driver, Mr. Severiano struck her vehicle in the rear with his truck.

Severiano did not have a drivers license or a Tennessee identification card and a check through NCIC showed he had a conviction for DUI in July of 2009 and is currently revoked for that DUI.

dinner at 6:30 PM to 7:30 PM.

Guest speaker will be Bill Landry, well known for his TV station WBIR program series "Heartland Tonight".

Tickets for this event will go on sale January 4, 2010. Locations of ticket sales will be provided later, or call the Good Shepherd Center.

The Good Shepherd Center was created to minister to people in crisis; specifically, people who are experiencing sudden or unexpected hardships caused by insufficient funds.

The Good Shepherd Center currently provides food to an average of 1600 people per month and distributes approximately 8,000 pounds of food per month to mention just as few of the services provided.

The Center operates with donations of money, food and clothing from churches and individuals, and volunteers provide the necessary work to operate the center.

This Fund Raiser Dinner is the only fund raiser the Center conducts each year.

CoverTN

ity due to the most successful open enrollment in the program's history.

The better-than-expected success of the open enrollment period marks yet another milestone for CoverTN as the program surpasses its enrollment target.

"This really is a bittersweet moment for CoverTN," said Gerald Reed, director of CoverTN. "We're coming off an open enrollment period that resulted in more than 2,500 new members, which demonstrates the need for this program. At the same time, we must continue to manage the program within our budget capacity, which for now means we need to suspend new enrollment."

Current members and participating businesses, as well as those who have been approved for effective coverage in January 2010, will be unaffected by the suspension. Any business or individual wishing to begin the enrollment process has until Nov. 30, 2009 to pre-qualify with the state, which can be done by visiting www.CoverTN.gov.

Currently, businesses and the self-employed that have pre-qualified for CoverTN through the state's Web site have up to one year to enroll in the program, while individuals have no time limit for enrollment. In light of the enrollment suspension, all businesses and individuals who have pre-qualified but have not yet enrolled with BlueCross BlueShield of Tennessee must do so by Dec. 31, 2009.

Since launching in 2007, CoverTN has provided basic health coverage for the state's working uninsured through partnership between the state, small employers and individuals. Monthly premiums are divided into thirds, with the state paying one-third of the cost for each member.

The plan has seen steady growth since its inception and has sought to enroll those Tennesseans who lacked insurance because no options for coverage existed. With the affordable, preventive-focused benefits of CoverTN, the state's uninsured have a viable option for receiving quality, basic health care.

In 2008, CoverTN introduced an eligibility category for the recently unemployed known as Tennesseans Between Jobs. This allowed those who had lost health coverage as a result of lay-offs or work hour reductions to come into the program. The category has seen continued growth as a result of the economic downturn, with more than 1,500 members in just under a year.

This change for CoverTN follows the October announcement that CoverKids, Tennessee's health coverage program for uninsured children, will suspend enrollment on Nov. 30, also due to budget limitations.

CoverTN is a program of Cover Tennessee, Governor Phil Bredesen's initiative to address the health care needs of Tennessee's uninsured. Cover Tennessee offers three other programs, including CoverKids, a free comprehensive health insurance program for qualifying children 18-years-old and younger. CoverRx provides Tennesseans who lack pharmacy benefits with access to affordable prescriptions and AccessTN offers comprehensive health insurance for those who are uninsurable due to pre-existing medical conditions.

For more information about any of the Cover Tennessee programs, visit www.CoverTN.gov or call 1-866-COVERTN.

Arden

sault.

According to reports, Monday at 6:00 pm, Patrolwoman April Farmer, LPD responded to a call of a domestic situation at a residence on Cox Road. The complainant stated she and her son, Jimmie Arden III, got into an argument over him and his girlfriend not helping with the housework.

The mother told the officer Jimmie went outside and hit the window of her vehicle causing it to bust out.

Mr. Arden reportedly admitted he hit the window causing it to break.

Officer Farmer stated in her report she examined the vehicle and noticed the driver's side rear window had been damaged.
