H1N1

enza-like illness (ILI) increased steeply since last week in the United States, and overall, are much higher than what is expected for this time of the year. ILI activity now is higher than what is seen during the peak of many regular flu seasons.

* Total influenza hospitalization rates for laboratory-confirmed flu are climbing and are higher than expected for this time of year. Hospitalization rates continue to be highest in younger populations with the highest hospitalization rate reported in children 0-4 years old.

* The proportion of deaths attributed to pneumonia and influenza (P&I) based on the 122 Cities Report has increased and has been higher than what is expected at this time of year for four weeks now. In addition, 22 flu-related pediatric deaths were reported this week; 19 of these deaths were confirmed 2009 H1N1, and three were influenza A viruses, but were not subtyped. Since April 2009, CDC has received reports of 114 laboratory-confirmed pediatric 2009 H1N1 deaths and another 12 pediatric deaths that were laboratory confirmed as influenza, but where the flu virus subtype was not determined.

* Forty-eight states are reporting widespread influenza activity at this time. They are: Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. This many reports of widespread activity are unprecedented during seasonal flu.

* Almost all of the influenza viruses identified so far are 2009 H1N1 influenza A viruses. These viruses remain similar to the virus chosen for the 2009 H1N1 vaccine, and remain susceptible to the antiviral drugs oseltamivir and zanamivir with rare exception.

Regulations

Agency.

The Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency changes by region and statewide for 2010: The new regulations will become effective, March 1, 2010.

Changes-Region III:

*Dale Hollow Reservoir

Increase muskellunge minimum size limit to 50 inches, 1 fish per day creel

*Fall Creek Lake, Fall Creek Falls State Park
Remove black bass minimum size limit

Establish 20 fish aggregate creel limit for redear and bluegill

*Falling Water Lake, Burgess Falls SP

Remove all fisheries regulations- statewide regulations apply

*Cordell Hull

Largemouth Bass- 17-23 inches Protected Length Range (PLR), 1 fish over 23 inches, 2

fish under 17 inches

*Caney Fork River

Rainbow and brook trout-14-20 inches PLR with 1 fish of each species over 20 inches

Brown Trout-24 inches Minimum Length Limit (MLL) with 1 fish over, (changed from 18-inches MLL with two over)

*Also, on the Caney Fork, the daily creel limit has been changed from seven to five trout per day, per person

Changes-Region IV:

*Cherokee Reservoir - remove paddlefish size limit. Replace wording: "Culling, the releasing of harvested fish, is prohibited" with "Paddlefish: 1 per day. Season is open from March 1-15. Fish may not be released when caught."

*Melton Hill Reservoir - Increase the muskellunge minimum length limit from 44 to 50 inches, 1 fish per day creel

Extend the striped bass PLR (32-42 inches, 1 over) to Hwy. 61 bridge at Clinton

*South Holston Reservoir- Remove the closed trout season (Dec. 1 to Feb. 28)

*Norris Reservoir - change smallmouth bass size limit from 18 inch minimum length limit to a 17 to 22 inches PLR-1 fish under and 1 fish over the PLR
Other changes-Statewide:

Sport trotlines, limblines, and jugs: To read -"Sport fishing trotlines, limblines, and jugs must be tagged and/or marked with the angler's name or current TWRA identification number.

Bait Proclamations-Live Bait, Commercial and Sportfishing:

The regulation changes include: 1) adoption of the Live Bait Proclamation 09-20 will regulate the sale and use of live bait for fishing; 2) Proclamation 09-21 which amends Commercial Fishing Proclamation 08-01 to allow commercial fishers to use live bait and provides guidelines for bait dealers who harvest live bait from the wild for the purpose of sale; and 3) an addition to the previously proposed Sport Fishing Proclamation 09-22 which would remove live bait regulations from the Sport Fishing Proclamation (because they will now be in the Live Bait Proclamation).

The live bait proclamation includes an amendment that allows bait dealers to sell and anglers to use goldfish for bait. Bait dealers will be allowed to harvest inland and brook silversides and sell these species as dead bait.

In other business at the October meeting, the TWRA presented its awards for the 2009 wildlife biologist and fisheries biologist of the year. Chris Simpson, from TWRA Region III was honored as the Wildlife Biologist of the Year. Jim Habera, from Region IV, was tabbed as the TWRA Fisheries Biologist of the Year.

The TWRC also heard from Charles "Chuck" Flynn from Rockford. Flynn was the first hunter to harvest an elk in Tennessee's first-ever managed elk hunt which came on Oct. 19.

Doug Peckam of the Volunteer Muskie Hunters Club presented a donation for Melton Hill Reservoir and other Tennessee waters.

The TWRC will next meet Dec. 3-4 in Nashville. The first meeting of the 2010 calendar year was scheduled during the October meeting and will be held Jan. 20-21 at Reelfoot Lake State Park.

Collins

Saturday, at approximately 12:36am, Patrolman Mark Maxwell, LCPD noticed a white Mazda sitting in the right travel lane of Rock Springs Road. Mr. John T. Collins was slumped over in the seat of the vehicle. Collins was reportedly asleep or passed out at the wheel and when the officer got him awake he noticed a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage about Collins's breath and body.

Collins was unsteady on his feet, had red bloodshot eyes, slurred speech and was very incoherent.

Mr. Collins was asked to perform field sobriety tasks, but would not cooperate with Officer Maxwell. He was also asked to submit to a chemical test and refused implied consent.

Police Beat

Heather Lynn Burris, 26, Laurel Creek Road, Madisonville was charged with violation of probation.
