weather.

Drivers in Tennessee have been using Tennessee 511 in increasing numbers since TDOT launched the system in 2006. In addition to real-time traffic information on Tennessee's interstate and state highways, travelers can access weather conditions, Amber Alerts, TDOT's Record-A-Comment phone line and the 511 systems in neighboring states, such as Georgia, Kentucky, Virginia and North Carolina.

Motorists may dial 511 from any cell phone and use either the phone's keypad or the voice recognition feature to access information. Remember to keep safety first. If possible, drivers should have a passenger in the vehicle make the call to 511 or pull to the side of the road to safely use the system.

People may also dial 511 from any land line phone or visit the Tennessee 511 website at <http://www.tn511.com/> to access this information before leaving home. TDOT is also on Twitter. For statewide information you can follow www.twitter.com/TN511. For regional information follow one of the following: www.twitter.com/Knoxville511, www.twitter.com/Chattanooga511, www.twitter.com/Nashville511, www.twitter.com/Memphis511. As always, motorists should practice common sense safety precautions when using any of these services.

Police Beat

Travis Junior Lowe, 27, Charleston, Tennessee was charged with assault by domestic violence.

The report states, on Saturday, around 4:17 a.m., Sgt. Joe Foster, LCPD was dispatched to Pine Top Street on a domestic situation. Upon arrival, and while investigating, a woman told the officer her boyfriend, Travis J. Lowe, woke her up and wanted her to take him home.

According to her, she told him she would in the morning.

Lowe reportedly began to curse her and throw things at her. Lowe's sister showed up and he was throwing things at her also striking her in the head.

Travis then locked himself in his girlfriend's car. He was intoxicated.
