located is the result of having good intel and a dedicated group of officers working together" Johnson stated.

The charge against Krikau is the result of an extensive investigation by Lieutenant Detective Dan Schneider, Ninth Judicial District Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) investigator, agents for the Ninth District Violent Crimes and Drug Task Force, Harriman Police and Lenoir City Police detectives.

Krikau is currently awaiting extradition to Tennessee in the Warren County, Missouri jail.

This is the second interstate flight arrest within the last few months.

James E. Fredrick was arrested in Corbin, Kentucky, on June 24, 2009, for failing to satisfy the requirements of the Sexual Offender Registry.

Fredrick was convicted in April of 1991 for aggravated criminal sexual assault on a minor in Chicago, Illinois, and had been living in Harriman.

Fredrick is being prosecuted in federal court since he went across state lines in an attempt to evade authorities in Tennessee in violation of the Adam Walsh Act.

At the time of his arrest by members of the United States Marshals Smoky Mountains Fugitive Task Force, Fredrick was living with a woman whom he met on the internet and her two minor children.

The woman did not know that Fredrick was a sexual offender.

"We want to rid our streets of these predators and prevent them from causing further harm. Thanks to the Smoky Mountain Fugitive Task Force and their assistance; it doesn't matter if these criminals are still within the ninth district. We will go get them and bring them to justice wherever they may try to hide". Johnson said.
