SFMO: Ensure Children Know When to "Stop, Drop, & Roll"

Stop, drop, and roll is one of the oldest and most well-known fire safety messages, but it's not the only fire safety message you or your family should remember during a fire emergency. The Tennessee State Fire Marshal's Office (SFMO) reminds parents that children may get the 'stop, drop and roll' message confused with other equally important home fire safety messages.

Keep Your Home Safe during Summer Travels

Whether your vacation plans include sunshine, mountain vistas, or ocean waves, the Tennessee Department of Commerce and Insurance reminds consumers to evaluate their insurance risks and needs before setting off to recharge with family and friends this summer.

"Summer travels should be spent relaxing, not worrying about what could happen to your home and possessions while you're away," said TDCI Commissioner and National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) President Julie Mix McPeak. "We're encouraging Tennessee-Britanee Cinnamon, 29, Cove Lane Oliver Springs, was charged with Mfg/Del/Sale or Poss. Of Meth, and Contraband in a Penal Institution.

Officer Green LCPD, observed a silver Nissan traveling S. on Hwy

321. This vehicle passed through the intersection of Hwy 321 and Hwy 11. After passing through the intersection Officer observed this vehicle drift into the shoulder of the roadway and continue traveling along the white line. Officer initiated a traffic stop and made contact with the occupants of the vehicle. After speaking with the occupants Officer requested the driver, to exit the vehicle to gather additional information. Officer requested consent to search the vehicle from driver in which he stated the vehicle was not registered to him. The registered owner of the vehicle was, a female which was the front seat passenger. Owner did grant him with consent to search the vehicle. Officer requested the back seat passenger, Britanee Cinnamon, to exit the vehicle to conduct my search. Upon search of the vehicle Officer located a black wallet in a purse located in the seat Ms. Cinnamon was occupying. Upon search of the wallet Officer located approximately 4 grams of a white Jimmy Henderson, 34, Town Creek Circle Lenoir City, was charged with Domestic Assault, Failure to Appear, Domestic Assault Felony, Vandalism, and Violation of Probation.

Dep A. Parton LCSO, responded to Town Creek Circle in reference to a domestic. Upon arrival, Deputy spoke to victims who stated that Jimmy Derek Henderson was wanting to drive their truck over to river manner to attempt to buy drugs. When they said no Derek started throwing things around the house and threatened to kill victim if he did not give Derek his medication. Derek then went outside and hit victim in the left leg with a wooden stick. He then went back inside of the house and took victim medication and took her phone away from her when he found out she was calling 911. He then ran out of the back door and left the scene. Deputy offered victims if they would like to be transported to a safe place and they stated that they did not want to leave the house. Jimmy Henderson was later located and arrested. This did occur in Loudon County, Tennessee.

detection of Methamphetamine. Ms. Cinnamon stated the purse and wallet was hers, but had no knowledge of who the crystal-like substance belonged to. Due to the fact of Ms. Cinnamon being the only individual in reach of this substance Officer took her into custody and transported her to Loudon County Jail without incident. Upon arrival of the Jail Officer informed Ms. Cinnamon that if she had any illegal substances on her person she would be charged once we entered the jail. Ms. Cinnamon denied possessing any illegal substances. Upon contraband search of this individual, Deputy S. Bevins, located a small baggie containing a white crystal-like substance believed to be Methamphetamine in her bra. Officer charged Ms. Cinnamon with Man, Sell, Delivery or Poss. of Meth and Contraband in Penile Institution. The above occurred in Lenoir City, TN.

ans to add an evaluation of their insurance needs to their pre-vacation to-do list. A simple check of policy coverages can provide peace of mind that your home and possessions are protected while you're away."

TDCI and NAIC provide the following tips to ensure you're protected while enjoying summer fun:

Traveling Whether you're leaving home for a weekend getaway or an extended vacation, be aware of what your homeowners or renters policy will cover. Typically, your homeowners insurance will follow you, protecting you even while you're not at home. Off-premises coverage means your belongings are insured anywhere in the world. If you're staying at a hotel and your belongings are stolen, your homeowners policy will provide protection, but the exact coverage depends on your policy. In addition to your deductible, expensive items such as jewelry will typically have a replacement limit. Contact your agent to find out what's insured under your policy.

Discourage Break-Ins

Making your home a less enticing target can discourage break-ins and may even lower your insurance premium.

Install deadbolts on doors. These can slow a burglar, and in some cases lead to an insurance discount. Invest in an alarm system or motion-activated camera. An alarm will often discourage a burglar. Some alarm systems may result in an insurance discount. Keep your Home looking "Lived In" Put interior lights on a timer or choose a few rooms to remain lit to give the impression someone is home. Stop mail delivery or have a neighbor collect your mail, newspapers and packages so they don't stack up outside. Hire someone to cut the grass if you'll be gone long enough that growth will be noticeable. Leave a radio on and turn down your doorbell volume, if possible. Some thieves ring the doorbell or knock to determine if anyone is home. Having a loud radio playing and the doorbell muted plants doubt in an intruder's mind. Have a locked car parked in your driveway. Another way to make a home look lived in is to have cars coming and going from the driveway throughout the day. Protecting your home's contents is also important. Give a spare key to a neighbor or friend to have access to the home. Avoid the cliché of putting the key under the mat, as thieves often check there. Keep important documents and expensive items in a lockbox, a safe, or at another location. Don't keep valuable documents in a personal desk or office where burglars will know to look for them. Stow your computer out of sight to discourage an intruder from trying to hack into your personal accounts.

Wait to Share on Social Media

Don't announce your trip in advance except to trusted friends. Talking about an upcoming trip in public settings or posting trip photos on social media while you are away lets potential burglars know your home is empty. Wait until you are home to share the trip highlights on social media.

think that I do on a regular basis but I fear most of the time my vision of God is marked by images of scarcity rather than abundance. This is true even though time and again when I truly allow myself to need God to fill the gap, God does.

God never fails. In the reading from 2 Kings we see that tension played out -- a servant hesitant to trust God's ability to deliver on a promise and the prophet Elisha knowing in his core that God will come through. As the story goes, God delivers in a way that can only be described as a divine miracle. But we should know better. Miracle? Not so much. This is God doing God's thing-again and again faithfully giving us all that we need even when we can't seem to fathom the possibility. Yes, God is enough. Do you believe that? Really?

Prayer: God of abundance, meet us where we are and stir us out of our own need to control and dictate the way things go. Remind us, this day, that you are indeed enough and we shall never want. For you are God and we are not. Amen.

Fire

With a new school year on the horizon, the SFMO is encouraging parents to talk to their kids about when to stop, drop, and roll.

“Teaching children to stop, drop, and roll when their clothes are on fire is an important step in ensuring they are fire safe,” said Tennessee Department of Commerce and Insurance (TDCI) Commissioner and State Fire Marshal Julie Mix McPeak. “It is important that children can differentiate stop, drop, and roll from what to do in a house fire. We encourage parents to talk to their kids about when stop, drop, and roll is necessary, and when to deploy other fire safety messages like ‘get out, stay out’.”

Make sure you and your family know what to do in case a clothing fire occurs: If your clothes or body catch fire, then you should stop, drop, and roll. Stop immediately, drop to the ground, and cover your face with your hands. Roll over and over or back and forth until the fire is out. If you use a wheelchair, scooter, or other device and are able to get to the floor, lock the device first to stay in place before getting on the floor to roll until the flames are out. If you cannot stop, drop, and roll, use a blanket or towel smother the flames. Immediately remove loose clothing or clothing with elastic bands, as well as belts and jewelry. Get medical help right away by calling 9-1-1. Use cool water to treat any resulting burns immediately for 3 to 5 minutes. Cover with a clean, dry cloth. Do not apply creams, ointments, sprays or other home remedies.

To prevent clothes from catching on fire:

Wear short, close-fitting, or tightly rolled sleeves when cooking or grilling.

Teach children to never play with matches or lighters.

Have a “kid-free zone” of at least 3 feet around fireplaces, candles, grills, and stoves.

In addition to talking to your kids about when to stop, drop, and roll, make sure they understand the following concepts to keep them safe:

If a smoke alarm sounds, ‘get out and stay out’.

If you must escape through smoke, stay low to the ground and move quickly.

Close doors behind you as you’re escaping to help quarantine the fire.

Never go back into a burning building for any reason.

Contact your local fire department and emergency responders once you are outside the burning structure.
