assistance letter. The deadline for submitting a claim on a secondary residence is April 1, 2018.

“We want to make Sevier County homeowners aware that they can apply for these special sales tax refunds,” Revenue Commissioner David Gerregano said. “This is an important opportunity that we do not want people to miss.”

Individuals whose primary and/or secondary residence was damaged or destroyed as a result of the Sevier County wildfires during November 28 - December 9, 2017 can receive a refund for Tennessee sales tax paid on certain items used to rebuild and restore their homes. The maximum refund available to any one residence is $3,500. Items that qualify for the sales tax refund include major appliances, furniture and building supplies used to restore, repair or rebuild a person’s primary or secondary residence.

A person filing a claim for a refund for his or her primary residence must include documentation verifying the assistance he or she received from FEMA. Individuals filing a claim for refund for their secondary residence must certify the damage or destruction was the result of the Sevier County wildfires and provide a copy of their fire department report, insurance adjuster’s report, or other documentation to verify the secondary residence was damaged or destroyed during the Sevier County wildfires. A person can file only one claim for a primary residence and only one claim for a secondary residence.

A person should wait until he or she has made all purchases before filing a claim for refund. Receipts and invoices should be compiled and tracked so that all eligible items purchased after the date of the disaster from all retailers can be submitted at the same time. For more information about refunds and how to apply, please visit our website. You may also read the Department’s important notice about this topic here.

The Department of Revenue is responsible for the administration of state tax laws and motor vehicle title and registration laws, as well as the collection of taxes and fees associated with those laws. The Department collects about 87 percent of total state revenue. During the 2017 fiscal year, it collected $13.9 billion in state taxes and fees, and more than $2.7 billion in taxes and fees for local governments.

ing. But then, with just a few words, Jesus stilled the storm and all was well. When their survival had seemed impossible, it turned out salvation was mere moments away.

So often, the problems that cause us trouble in the present moment look laughably small in the rear-view mirror. Though this reveals our shortsightedness, it also reveals the power of God to deliver. God’s power makes imposing mountains into molehills. Life’s struggles and challenges are real and threatening, but God’s power to save is more real still.

Prayer: God of power, you speak and the storms have no choice but to obey. Make me to trust in your power so that the most violent tempest may be no more than a ripple. Amen.

Taxes

Brian Leo Snow failed to pay his federal tax liabilities for the years 2000 – 2008 and then became the subject of collection activity by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). After being held in contempt of court for failing to provide documents and records to the IRS, Snow filed false retaliatory liens claiming that various government officials, including an IRS revenue officer, an Assistant United States Attorney, and a United States District Court Judge for the Eastern District of Tennessee owed him millions of dollars. Each of these government officials had been involved in attempts to collect Snow's back taxes. Snow also filed three false claims with the IRS claiming over $144 million in tax refunds to which he was not entitled. Snow owes the IRS over $150,000 in taxes.

Sentencing is scheduled for November 28, 2018. Snow faces a statutory maximum sentence of fifteen years in prison. He also faces a term of supervised release, restitution, and monetary penalties.

Principal Deputy Assistant Attorney General Zuckerman commended special agents of the offices of Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration and IRS Criminal Investigation, who conducted the investigation, and Tax Division Senior Litigation Counsel Jen E. Ihlo and Trial Attorney Jason M. Scheff, who are prosecuting the case.
