Tennessee Sends Critical, Life-Saving Response Teams to the Carolinas for Hurricane Florence Help

The State of Tennessee deployed multiple teams of state and local emergency management, medical, and swift-water rescue teams to the Carolinas today to support emergency officials readying for life-safety impacts when Hurricane Florence makes land-fall Friday.

The Tennessee

Emergency Management Agency (TEMA) is coordinating Tennessee's Hurricane Florence deployments through the Emergency Management Assistance Compact (EMAC), with organizational support from the Tennessee Association of Fire Chiefs' Mutual Aid System and the Tennessee Department of Health.

Assault

Adam Winters, 45, Crescent Drive Loudon, was charged with DUI, Aggravated Assault, Evading Arrest, Driving without a valid License, Speeding over 21 MPH, and Violation of Implied Consent. Deputy Scarbrough LCSO, was dispatched to a domestic at Crescent Drive. While Officers were in route, dispatch advised the male subject Adams Winters was leaving the scene driving a white truck with a lawnmower in the back. Dispatch advised Winters was intoxicated according to the victim, and had turned onto Hwy 11. Deputy met the truck on the Tennessee River Bridge, and activated his emergency equipment, the truck immediately sped up attempting to evade. Sgt. Watkins advised he clocked the truck at 70 in a 30 MPH zone. A short pursuit in sued and ended at Hackberry Street. Winters got out of his vehicle drinking a 24 oz Natural Ice Beer. Winters was unsteady on his feet, and placed under arrest. Deputy Branson went to Crescent Drive and spoke to the victim who stated Winters had been drinking and they got into an argument. Victim advised she went to the bathroom and Winters followed, and punched her in the back of the head several times while choking her. Victim had a swollen upper lip and redness around her neck. This did occur in Loudon Co.

"Tennessee is sending well-trained and dedicated emergency managers, first responders, and health professionals to help South Carolinians through what could be a devastating disaster," said Director Patrick Sheehan of the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency (TEMA). "We are all One Emergency Management when any of us provide assistance in an emergency situation. It doesn't matter that we're federal, state, or local responders. What matters is we are there to help when help is needed."

Tennessee's Hurricane Florence swift-water rescue team will stage operations in Columbia, S.C., for up to one week, possibly longer. The swift-water rescue personnel will conduct missions to save Hurricane Florence survivors from perilous conditions involving fast-moving or fast-rising flood waters. Team members have specialized training in conducting dangerous water rescue operations and transporting survivors to safety.

Tennessee's Nurse Strike Teams Providing Medical Support & Relief. The Hurricane Florence force deployment from Tennessee also includes two nurse strike teams with 22 personnel who will stage in Charlotte, N.C., and provide medical care and support to local officials helping Hurricane Florence survivors.

The nurse strike teams include local and regional health department professionals from Tennessee's east, southeast, and upper Cumberland regions and representing the counties of Benton, Bedford, Decatur, Gibson, Henry, Knox, Lawrence, Madison, Morgan, Overton, Putnam, Weakley, and White.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with everyone impacted by Hurricane Florence, including our own first responders at the Tennessee Department of Health (TDH), highly trained nurses, and emergency professionals serving on strike teams and deploying to North Carolina today," said TDH Commissioner John Dreyzehner, MD, MPH. "We know that along with other Tennessee volunteers they will be vital and welcome care providers and support for our neighbors affected by what could be a massively disruptive storm."

TEMA expects the nurse strike teams to be deployed in North Carolina for up to seven days.

Tennessee Communication and Ambulance Teams Deploy for Hurricane Florence

Rutherford County, the Tennessee Advanced Communications Network, and TEMA sent four communications personnel to North Carolina on Wednesday with assets and resources to augment the ability of first responders to communicate with each other during hurricane incident operations.

The State of Tennessee deployed an ambulance strike team of 23 state and local personnel to Charlotte, N.C. on Tuesday to support the movement of patients before Hurricane Florence makes land-fall. The ambulance strike team includes emergency medical services professionals from the counties of Benton, Cheatham, Henderson, McNairy, Madison, Robertson, Sumner, Williamson, and Wilson, and Metro Nashville. A representative from TDH also deployed with the ambulance strike team to coordinate activities of the deployed team members.

On Monday, two ambulance bus teams with seven personnel deployed to South Carolina to assist in the evacuation of health care facilities in South Carolina's Myrtle Beach and Charleston areas. The ambulance bus teams include staff from Anderson and Washington counties, the Knoxville Fire Department, and TDH.

TEMA Coordinates Deployments & Sends Emergency Support Personnel

Additionally, TEMA has deployed seven staff members with the deployed teams to the Carolinas to provide incident, logistics, and resource support for missions involving

Theft

An investigation by the Tennessee Comptroller's Office has determined that Pamela Byrd, the former office manager of the Brookwood Terrace Apartments in Wartburg stole at least $22,036.

The Brookwood Terrace Apartments is a 24-unit complex and is part of the Douglas-Cherokee Economic Authority (DCEA), which receives its primary funding from federal and state grants. The investigation began after the DCEA notified the Comptroller's Office of potential financial discrepancies at the apartment complex.

Investigators found that Byrd stole $22,036 in rental payments and security deposits between October 1, 2012 and June 9, 2017. The tenants told investigators they paid their rent each month in cash to the office manager. Byrd resigned on June 9, 2017.

On August 15, 2018

Pamela Byrd pled to an information of one count of theft between $10,000 and $60,000. She also reimbursed the Brookwood Terrace Apartments $22,036 as part of her plea agreement.

"The DCEA must ensure that it is providing adequate oversight to this apartment complex," said Comptroller Justin P. Wilson. "This includes making periodic on-site visits and creating a process whereby the same person is not receiving collections, issuing receipts, and delivering deposits to the bank.

the communications, nurses, and swift-water rescue teams. TEMA staff members are also working in South Carolina's Emergency Operations Center in Columbia, S.C. to support response operations and incident management.

TEMA began assembling the response teams Monday as Hurricane Florence strengthened to a Category 2 storm with maximum sustained winds of 130 mph.

Hurricane Florence strengthened Tuesday with winds of 140 mph, and may become more powerful before hitting the Carolina coast as a Category 4 storm Thursday night or Friday morning.

More than 1 million people are under mandatory evacuation orders in the coastal areas of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

of that "precious planting" (Isaiah 5), sown and nurtured by God's own loving hand. And God has not left you without instruction, a fence to help you live and flourish and bear good fruit. But notice also in these verses that the fence God has made is not so high that the neighbors can't see and admire what's going on. "See how near God is to them!" they exclaim. "See how just, wise, and discerning this people is!" You have been joined to a people whose deeper purpose is witness. Remember that as you honor the boundaries

God has set for you and your disciple community, you do so ultimately so that others will be drawn to the goodness of the Gardener and desire to be grafted into the Vine.

Prayer: God our gardener, thank you for giving us instruction to help us grow and prosper. Strengthen us to follow your teaching so that those around us might recognize that you are near. Amen.
