Wanted

Eugene Palmer, wanted for allegedly shooting and killing his daughter-in-law outside her home in Stony Point, New York, on September 24, 2012, has been added to the FBI's Ten Most Wanted Fugitives list. He should be considered armed and dangerous. After he allegedly fired three shots at Tammy Palmer, 39, Eugene Palmer was last seen entering New York's Harriman State Park. A reward of up to $100,000 is being offered for information leading to Palmer's capture.

Palmer would now be 80 years old. Although some members of his family have asserted that he likely died in the Harriman woods, Haverstraw Police Detective Michael Cruger said no body was found during multiple searches, and he believes Palmer is very much alive.

The victim of the shooting was married to Eugene Palmer's son and lived with their two children close to several members of the Palmer family on a large parcel of land. According to the Haverstraw Police Department and the FBI, Eugene Palmer developed a strained relationship with Tammy Palmer as her marriage to Eugene's son deteriorated. "Before the incident," Detective Cruger said, "a judge issued an order of protection." On the morning of September 24, 2012, Tammy Palmer walked her children to catch the school bus at the end of the property's long driveway. Eugene Palmer was believed to have been hiding in the woods, and as she walked the driveway back toward her home, Palmer allegedly shot at her from a distance, striking her arm and then missing her with a second shot. The third, fatal shot was delivered at close range to the victim's chest. FBI New York Special Agent Andrew Fisher said that after the shooting, Eugene Palmer fled into the wooded 45,000-acre state park that borders the family property: "He drove his truck about 100 yards into Harriman State Park and walked in." Law enforcement located his vehicle, and with the help of search dogs, followed his scent to a campground in the woods. The dogs lost the scent at another roadway in the park. Fisher says the fact that Palmer is a senior citizen does not make him less of a risk or less of a priority to law enforcement. "His age doesn't change the level of violence in this crime," he said. Cruger stressed that finding Palmer is very much a priority for the Haverstraw Police Department and for the Rockland County community. "I want to bring the family closure. It hit me hard that we couldn't capture him before Tammy's mother passed," he said. "It's unfinished for us." Palmer is mostly bald with some grey hair and brown eyes. He is 5'10" tall, weighs 220 pounds, and has a misshapen thumb on his left hand. He is a car racing enthusiast and an experienced hunter and outdoorsman.

If you have any information concerning Eugene Palmer, please call your local FBI office or contact your nearest American Embassy or Consulate. Tips can also be submitted at tips.fbi.gov.

dren's Day, May 25. According to the National Center for Missing Exploited Children (NCMEC):

-In 2018, more than 23,500 runaways were reported to NCMEC and one in seven were likely victims of child sex trafficking.

-In 2016, 11% of endangered runaways were believed to be involved in gangs.

It is estimated as of March 2019, there were 419 missing/runaway children on the streets of the five-county Metro Atlanta region.

"Thanks to the month-long efforts of our partners, 231 children are no longer vulnerable to predators who would seek to exploit them," said Chris Hacker, special agent in charge of FBI Atlanta. "Operation Safe Summer is another example of the FBI's commitment to protecting our children before they become victims."

OSS was conducted near the start of the summer season to raise awareness and send an important message at a time the community's children are most vulnerable to becoming targets for exploitation.

The summer is not only the hottest month temperature-wise, but with children out of school, spending more time on line and on their smart phones, summer is also a hot time for sexual predators.

With an emphasis on prevention, OSS concentrated much of its efforts on locating and identifying those vulnerable children before they were targeted by sexual predators.

The FBI would like to thank its many law enforcement partners who contributed to Operation Safe Summer's success along with our non-government organization partners:

Federal: FBI, Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), U.S. Attorney's Office, U.S. Marshals Service
State: Georgia Bureau of Investigation (GBI), Georgia Department of Community Supervision, Georgia Department of Family and Children Services (DFACS), Georgia Department of Juvenile Justice

Alpharetta PD, Forest Park PD

Integral to the success of OSS are the following non-governmental organizations who provide care to our vulnerable populations: National Center for Missing Exploited Children, Georgia Cares, Out of Darkness, 4Sarah, Wellspring Living for Girls, Street Grace
