Any infomation please call 865-936-0630

My huge life sized fiberglass sheep statue was stolen out of my back yard of the Loudon Housing Authority neighborhood on Creekwood Circle the 4th or 5th of July. My house backs up to trees between me and the houses on Carding Machine Road. The sheep was right behind my house in my flower bed so it was not visible from the road..... limited amount of people knew it was back there but evidently someone around me had company who saw it and decided to steal it. I am on disability now and had made payments to have this garden statue ...I finally got it on May 20th ..... so I did not get to enjoy it very long. I just want people to know if they see my Sheep or know who stole my Sheep..... That I would like her back and am willing to give a reward to someone if they will help.

FBI

25, 2019.

The FBI is working to address evolving cyber threats facing the country, including foreign influence and foreign investment, FBI Director Christopher Wray said at a cybersecurity conference today.

“These threats strike—and they strike hard—at our security. That means our economic security and our ability to keep our companies safe from theft and intrusion,” Wray said. “It means our national security ... it means our safety as everyday citizens walking the streets and sending our kids to school.”

Wray served as the closing speaker at the International Conference on Cyber Security in New York, co-sponsored by the FBI and Fordham University. He was joined by Rev. Joseph McShane, president of Fordham University, and FBI New York Special Agent in Charge Aristedes Mahairas.

Wray described the many resources the FBI brings to its cyber mission—from Cyber Action Teams to the 24-hour command post known as CyWatch to the addition of cyber-focused legal attachés in FBI offices around the world.

“Our role isn’t limited to investigations,” Wray explained. We’re using our expertise to warn the public and private sectors about what we’re seeing and to spotlight risks and vulnerabilities.”

Foreign influence is one of today’s most pressing cyber-related threats, and Wray discussed the FBI’s role in mitigating these threats to the 2020 elections. Through its Foreign Influence Task Force, the FBI has foreign influence-related investigations open across the country. The Bureau’s efforts also involve building relationships with the private sector and information sharing.

“But the foreign influence threat isn’t just limited to election season,” Wray said. “We have to remain vigilant all year round. We have to raise public awareness and increase our country’s resilience in a more sustained and enduring way.”

Another threat of concern to the U.S. government is foreign investment in American companies, which can sometimes lead to the theft of intellectual property, sensitive data, or proprietary research. He urged U.S. companies to exercise caution in working with companies from adversarial countries because adversaries are willing to buy access to American proprietary information.

FBI Director Christopher Wray speaks at the Fordham University/FBI-sponsored International Conference on Cyber Security in New York City on July 25, 2019.

“These threats strike—and they strike hard—at our security.”

Spring Road. Deputy made contact with the driver Candice Chitwood, and immediately smelled odor of an alcoholic beverage coming from inside the vehicle. Deputy ask Chitwood if she had been drinking she advised he had been. Deputy ask Chitwood to perform sobriety test. Chitwood did poorly on test and placed under arrest. Once at the jail Chitwood consented to breath test and blew a .175.

Additionally, Wray called on the public and private sectors to work together to address the growing inability for law enforcement to lawfully access encrypted data of terrorists and criminals, sometimes referred to as "going dark." This data may be on phones or other devices or transmitted over encrypted apps or platforms. While the FBI supports strong cybersecurity, Wray said that no place should be completely off-limits to lawful access. He called it a "fundamental public safety issue" that hampers not only the FBI but also state and local law enforcement efforts.

LCPD

The Lenoir City Police Department in cooperation with the Loudon County Sheriff's Office will be conducting a sobriety checkpoint on Old Hwy. 95 and Wilson Street in Lenoir City from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday, August 2nd, 2019.

"Sobriety checkpoints are a valuable tool to combat impaired driving. It increases public awareness of impaired driving and allows officers to detect and apprehend impaired drivers that may otherwise not be detected." says Chief Don White.

Increased state and national messaging about the dangers of drunk driving, coupled with increased sobriety checkpoints and high visibility enforcement, aim to drastically reduce the number of drunk-driving crashes, injuries, and fatalities this year.

The consequences of a single DUI conviction for a first-time offender in the state of Tennessee may include costly fines, court costs, legal fees, jail time, mandatory drug and alcohol treatment, and/or the installation of an ignition interlock device in his/her vehicle.

The THSO provides grant funding to support Lenoir City Police Department's increased enforcement efforts. For more information about the THSO, please visit www.tntrafficsafety.org.
