Unresponsive Man In The Road Struck By Trooper Vehicle

On September 22, 2019, around 2:00 a.m. a vehicle traveling in the 2700 block of Highway 41 South in Greenbrier, Tennessee noticed what appeared to be a body lying in the road. The vehicle turned around and drove back, getting within 10-feet of the body and shined their headlights towards the body. The driver saw the body of a white-male, wearing only blue-jean pants appearing unresponsive. The driver then moved the vehicle a little further away from the body and called the Robertson County 911 center. While the 911 call was im

Roy Oller, 22, Matlock Shores Loudon, was charged with Leaving the Scene of Accident, Vandalism, and Driving on Revoked/Suspended License. Cpl. C. Jenkins LCSO, responded to a hit and run by a vehicle to a residence at

Matlock Shores. Deputy arrived on scene and spoke to the victim who stated he heard a loud noise around 03:15, and when he left for work he noticed his front porch along with furniture and structure severely damaged to the residence. During the investigation it was clear a vehicle had done the damage and left the scene. After speaking with several witnesses and the owner of the vehicle it was learned that Roy Oller was the driver and was located at the Monterey Mushroom. Once he was placed in custody he stated he left the scene because his license was suspended. Roy Oller was transported to the Loudon County Jail.

strated they have the commitment it takes to serve their fellow Tennesseans," said TLETA Director Brian Grisham. "In addition to completing their TLETA training, they donated 82 units of blood during a blood drive with the American Red Cross that have the potential for saving up to 246 lives. I commend Class 1869 for their dedication and wish them the best as they return to their communities and serve the Volunteer State." Metropolitan Nashville Airport Authority Director of Public Safety David Griswold will be the graduation's featured speaker. TLETA's Basic Police School course provides technical and tactical expertise in addition to the ethical and professional standards needed to be a successful law enforcement officer. The newly certified officers who will graduate Friday will join thousands of law enforcement officers who have graduated from TLETA during its more than 50-year history. Graduates of Class 1869 will serve the following police departments (PD), sheriffs' offices (SO), and other agencies: Bartlett (PD), Bedford County (SO), Benton County (SO), Brentwood (PD), Centerville (PD), Clarksville (PD), Coffee County (SO), Collierville (PD), Columbia (PD), Cookeville (PD), Decherd (PD), Dickson County (SO), Dickson (PD), Dyersburg (PD), Fentress County (SO), Gallatin (PD), Germantown (PD), Giles County (SO), Greenfield (PD), Hardeman County (SO), Hendersonville (PD), Humboldt (PD), Jackson (PD), Lake County progress, Trooper John-Mark Tarr of the Tennessee Highway Patrol (THP) was on patrol in the area approaching the vehicle. The vehicle flashed their lights at Trooper Tarr to get his attention. While Trooper Tarr approached the vehicle flashing their headlights, he inadvertently ran over the body. He immediately stopped his vehicle, got out to check what he had ran over, and upon realizing he ran over a man, he quickly called THP dispatch and requested for an ambulance to respond to his location. He activated his lights and camera after calling dispatch. 49-year-old James Yates of Springfield, Tennessee was pronounced dead at the scene. It is unknown why he was lying in the road. Tennessee Highway Patrol's Critical Incident Response Team (CIRT) and Criminal Investigations Division (CID) responded to the scene. The incident remains under investigation.

Interest

of $207 million of higher education facilities bonds. The bond proceeds will be used to support capital projects at 6 of the state's colleges and universities. These projects include education buildings, parking garages, recreation facilities, and residence hall renovations. Prior to the bond sale, the national publication The Bond Buyer informed investors that Tennessee was offering these "high quality bonds for risk-averse investors."

"Tennessee continues to be a very low-debt state, and we don't often issue bonds," said Comptroller Justin P. Wilson. "However, on the rare occasions that we do sell bonds, our sterling financial condition helps us attract buyers and maintain incredibly low interest rates." The TSSBA sold $147 million of Series A tax exempt bonds to Bank of America with a low total interest cost of 2.70%. These bonds generated a $40 million premium that was used to reduce the par amount of bonds issued. The authority also sold $60 million of Series B taxable bonds to Robert W. Baird at a slight net premium with a total interest cost of 2.53%.
