New Funding Opportunities for States, Cities, and Territories to Strengthen Overdose Surveillance and Prevention Efforts

The CDC is announcing two new Notices of Funding Opportunities (NOFOs) today under its Overdose Data to Action (OD2A) program to advance the critical work that health departments and communities play in driving down overdose deaths. One NOFO is designed for states and one for localities and territories. These NOFOs will expand and strengthen current overdose surveillance and prevention efforts and emphasize the use of data to inform prevention action and partnership engagement, and address health equity.

“Nearly 300 people are dying every day from drug overdoses. We must ensure broad resources and support are in place at all levels of government to save lives today and in the future,” said Christopher M. Jones, PharmD, DrPH, MPH (CAPT U.S. Public Health Service), Director of CDC’s National Center for Injury Prevention and Control. “This funding is critical to support innovation, expand harm reduction strategies and link people to life-saving

DUI

Christopher Smith, 28, Jacksboro Ave Rocky Top, was charged with DUI, and Violation of Implied Consent.

Officer Eldridge LCPD, was passing by the Beer Cave on Broadway St, when he noticed a Van (71BFGY) in the parking lot with it's drivers side door open and no one in the drivers seat. Upon closer inspection, Officer made contact with a male (Christopher Smith) who was passed out, and slumped up against his steering wheel. Verbal commands would not work and Smith had to be aggressively shook by officers before he became alert and responsive. Smith was very incoherent and le-gargic when interacting with officers and had to be helped out of his vehicle due to his balance being so poor. EMS was dispatched to the scene to check on Smith due to the suspicion of him being under the influence of a narcotic and showing symptoms of an overdose. EMS cleared from the Scene and Smith consented to perform a Field Sobriety Test. The HGN was unable to be completed due to Smith not following Of-ficers instructions when fol-lowing with his eyes. Smith performed poorly on both the Walk and Turn and the One Leg stand and was placed in custody at that time given the fact, Smith was in possession of the vehicle with the keys in the ignition, under the in-fluence, and unfit to drive. Implied consent was read and refused. Smith did admit to officers that he had driven to the store and that he had tak-en a Subutex at some point that day but did not disclose when. Smith was transport-ed to the Loudon Co Jail and the vehicle was impounded at Malones. This did occur in Lenoir City, Loudon Co, TN.

care, and make the latest data available so that we can get ahead of the constantly evolving epidemic, including changes in the illicit drug supply that make today's crisis more deadly than ever."

The new NOFOs, which help to advance the HHS Overdose Prevention Strategy, focus on the implementation of evidence-based interventions that correspond with recent shifts in the drug overdose crisis, including changes in the illicit drug supply, the continued threat from illicit fentanyl and other synthetic opioids, and a rise in stimulant and poly-substance use. Surveillance strategies will enhance and expand the ability of health departments to track fatal and non-fatal overdoses and identify emerging drug threats. The funded jurisdictions will use these data to continuously improve prevention activities and refine the understanding of what works to prevent overdoses and deaths in different groups of people, particularly those hit hardest by the epidemic.

"CDC remains committed to addressing health disparities and inequities in overdose," said Grant Baldwin, PhD, MPH, Director of CDC's Division of Overdose Prevention. "These funding opportunities focus on people disproportionately affected by overdose and underserved by treatment and harm reduction services – including some racial/ethnic groups, people experiencing incarceration or recent release from incarceration, and people experiencing homelessness."

Currently, CDC funds 47 states and Washington, D.C., 2 territories, and 16 large city and county health departments through OD2A. In 2023, CDC will build on this essential program, leveraging the latest epidemiology, prevention research, and lessons learned from the prior OD2A cycle.

For more information about these funding opportunities, visit <http://www.cdc.gov/drugoverdose/od2a/funding-announcements.html> and Grants.gov before the May 8, 2023, application deadline.
